 Mann's Fiction depends upon three psychoanalytic concepts Freud's early work on the relationship between the infant and its mother and on the psychology of artistic creation Annie Reich's analysis of the grotesque comic sublimation and Edmund Bergler's analysis of writer's block Mann's crisis of sexual anxiety in late adolescence is presented as the defining moment for his entire artistic life In the throes of that crisis he included a sketch of a female as Gorgon in a book that would not escape his mother's notice But to defend himself from being overcome by the Gorgon mother's stare he employed the grotesque comic sublimation hiding the mother figure behind fictional characters physically attractive but psychologically repellent all the while couching his fiction in an ironic tone that evoked humor however lacking in humor the subtext might be In this manner he could deny to himself that the mother figure always lurked in his work and by that denial deny that he was a victim of oral regression For as Edmund Bergler argues the creative writer who acknowledges his oral dependency will inevitably succumb to writer's block Mann's late work reveals that his defense against the Gorgon is crumbling In Doctor Faustus Mann portrays Adrian Leverkühn as ultimately the victim of oral regression but the fact that Mann was able to compete the novel despite severe physical illness and psychological distress demonstrates that he himself was still holding writer's block at bay In Confessions of Felix Krull Confidence Man a narrative that he had abandoned forty years before Mann was finally forced to acknowledge that he was depleted of creative vitality but not of his capacity for irony brilliantly couching the victorious return of the repressed in ambiguity This study will be of interest to general readers who enjoy Mann's narrative art to students of Mann's work especially its psychological and mythological aspects and to students of the psychology of artistic creativity British Mysteries - Boxed Set (350+ Detective Novels, Thrillers & True Crime Stories) have explored China's history, politics, and society. These distinct voices illuminate decades of transnational scholarship in the context of the rule of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) in mainland China. Spanning generations of French scholars, this book features luminaries such as sinologist Marianne Bastid-Bruguière and historian Michel Bonnin alongside younger voices like sociologist Gilles Guihéux. These experts reveal the CCP's unchanging nature despite surface-level reforms while exploring the party's evolving control over society under leaders from Mao Zedong to Xi Jinping. Moving beyond traditional narratives focused on Beijing and Shanghai, this book delves into second and third-tier cities across provinces like Fujian, Hebei, and Shandong, offering perspectives shaped by immersive research and deep ties with local communities. It captures the emotional, cultural, and intellectual connections of Sino-French engagements, providing readers with nuanced perspectives on China's social and political landscape through voices that have spent decades closely observing its evolution. This work is essential for students, scholars, and general readers interested in History, Political Science, Government, International Relations, and Asian Studies.
