LESSON PLANS TO TEACH PLOT & STORY SETTINGS

Types of Conflict

Understand that characters can experience different types of conflict.

- Character Conflict: A character has a problem, another character in the story could be a friend, understanding.
- Internal Conflict: A character has an internal conflict with themselves. It could be a tough decision or a negative trait.
- Environmental Conflict: An environmental force. It could be a natural disaster or some other.

Strategy Lesson #6

FOCUS: TYPES OF CONFLICT

Objective: Students will be able to understand plot by understanding different types of conflict.

TARGET

- Today we are going to spend some time analyzing plot. To better understand the plot of a story we can identify different types of conflicts that characters may experience.
- Characters can experience different types of conflict in stories.

TEACH

- The focus for today is understanding plot by identifying the type of conflict and environmental conflict.
- Once a reader has identified the conflict a character is having, they can analyze what type of conflict it is.
- Sometimes there can be more than one type of conflict in the same story.
- Let's look at the strategy card to see the different components of Types of Conflict.

TACKLE

Now it's your turn to try this strategy on your own.

Teacher Notes

- Initially, students would be able to bring their independent reading texts to the strategy group. If your students aren't reading a fictional text, or if you prefer to have all students using the same text, you can use the text The Weight of Gifts to help students apply this specific strategy.
- While students are reading and practicing the strategy independently, you want to check-in and talk with each student about how they are applying the strategy. Keep the discussion focused on their thinking vs. listening to them read.
- If you choose to use the shared text and students are reading the text for the first time, you might need to provide more time for this portion of the lesson. One way you can keep your strategy lessons more concise and still use a shared text is by providing students with the text prior to coming to the strategy group. This will make sure that while they are at the table, all they are focusing on is applying the strategy.

TRANSFER

Discuss:

- Who can tell me how this focus helped you better understand the plot?
- How did understanding and identifying the type of conflict help you better understand the story?

Link:

- Remember, you can analyze plot anytime you are reading independently. You can identify the conflict a character is having and then determine what type of conflict it is.

Organize Your Thinking:

Name: _____ Date: _____

Describe the problem.

What type of conflict is it?

How does the problem get solved?

Is a good solution?
