Severson,David R. Patton,1988 Historically the management of public lands from a multiple use perspective has led to a system that emphasizes those habitat components or faunal elements that primarily resulted in some sort of definable economic value While this often benefitted other species that were not even considered in the original prescriptions it also negatively impacted others We no longer can afford to take this simplistic view of ecosystem management We need to use a more holistic approach where ecological landscapes are considered as units and land management practices incorporate all elements into an integrated policy This includes examining the impacts of proposed land uses on amphibian reptile and small mammal populations Research in Psychology Kerri A. Likens,2012-12-06 The Cary Conferences as we have envisaged them are different from most scientific meetings in that they provide a forum for major issues in ecology from a more philosophical point of view It appears to many of us that ecologists have limited opportunities to come together in small groups to address in a more philosophical way some of the major questions and issues that matter very much to the future of humankind and to us as ecologists Moreover we hope that the setting ofthe Mary Flagler Cary Arboretum promotes strong interaction and discussion between Conference participants with a minimum of distraction We are proud to make our facilities available for such meetings and we hope that over the years these Conferences might provide direction and leadership for the whole field of ecology. We have the broad goal of attempting to advance the field of ecology by bringing together leading ecologists and other scientists to address major issues. The first Cary Conference in 1985 considered the status and future of ecosystem science. This first Conference was rather loosely structured but was successful in stimulating discussion ideas and enthusiasm. Likens et al 1987. The goals for this second Cary Conference in 1987 were 1 to identify the roles of long term studies in ecology 2 to identify the options for study of long term ecological phenomena 3

A Model Curriculum and Teaching Guide for the Instruction of the Homemaker-home Health Aide, 1981 Peer Relationships and Social Skills in Childhood K.H. Rubin, H.S. Ross, 2012-12-06 Amy Rubin the seven year old daughter of one of this volume's editors was discussing with her close friend Kristin her teacher's practice of distributing stickers to her classmates for completing their seat work. As the conversation continued Joshua Amy's two year old brother although Amy would argue that he more often resembles an albatross around her neck sauntered up to the older children. He flashed a broad smile hugged his sister and then grabbed her book of stickers. Corey Ross the nine year old son of the other editor was trying to plan a tobogganing party with his friend Claire. The problem facing Corey and Claire was that there were too few toboggans to go around for their grade four classmates. Jordan Corey's younger brother had agreed to lend his toboggan. However Harriet Claire's younger sister and Jordan's close friend had resisted all persuasive attempts to borrow her toboggan. The older children decided that the best strategy was to use Jordan's friendship with Harriet and his good example of sibling generosity in presenting their case to Harriet. Both of these anecdotes exemplify what this volume on peer relationships and social skills is about. Children have friends with whom they discuss issues of perceived social significance. During the early elementary school years rather sophisticated conversations and debates concerning topics of reward distribution altruism person perception social status sibling relations and cooperation can be overheard especially by eavesdropping parents who have professional interests in such matters.
