

	Job roles will be indicated on the presentation and explained by the teacher.
Explanation of Activity ("Mission") Objectives	The teacher will explain the mission to the class. The mission objectives are as follows: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To create a 15 item list order by importance for survival on the moon. 2. To communicate with ground control. One student (the "communications expert") from each team is allowed to approach the teacher ("ground control") with their crew's list of the top five items that they believe they need most urgently. The communications expert may also ask ground control any questions about the items. 3. To record the crew's decisions in an infographic explaining their reasons for placing each item in it's ranked slot. This is to assist other moon landing crews who may find themselves in a similar emergency situation. The students will ask the teacher any questions they may have about the activity. The teacher will answer questions, however they may choose not to answer questions that can be otherwise resolved after conducting research.
Work Period	Students will be given 15 minutes to complete the activity objectives. (Time maybe adjusted if needed) The teacher will be roaming around the classroom to resolve student issues and assist crews when necessary. The teacher will play ambient music or videos. They will also have a countdown timer displayed so crews are informed on how much time they have left to complete their tasks. Time may be added or removed according to the teacher's discretion.
Reporting results	Once 15 minutes have elapsed (or once the teacher decides a sufficient amount of time has passed) the teacher will begin a class discussion on what results each crew came up with. The teacher may ask the communications expert to share their top 5 items so that they could compare answers with the rest of the class. Results may be recorded on the classroom's white board by either the teacher or a student volunteer.
