Clermont, 2024-10-02 This book reframes the fundamentals of decisionmaking under uncertainty For almost a century theorists have spoken of truth finding in terms of probability They have said things like some past fact was 51% certain or proclaimed that in a civil dispute a fact must be shown to exceed a 50% likelihood But such talk is a misleading misconception The reason is that traditional probability fails to distinguish epistemic uncertainty from aleatory uncertainty This conflation leads to mistakes such as invoking probability s product rules which calculate a conjunction s likelihood as being low From there the theorists have argued that in a myriad of ways the law violates the probability calculus unforgivably Today other theorists are newly realizing that in large part the law does not deal in probability They now can defend the way that law has found facts since long before the invention of probability and on to the present They are also reevaluating such intuitive practices as those that humans use in daily life to combine inferences upon inferences A hotly contested literature has emerged In a significant comprehensive and original contribution this book develops a theoretical justification for the intuitive approaches that humans deploy across a broad range of decisionmaking Instead of probability the book focuses on degrees of belief that estimate given the state of the evidence how far a proposition has been fully proven Instead of combining findings by the rules of probability the book uses the rules of multivalent logic The aim is to illuminate decisionmaking outside statistical analysis showing that our ancient wisdom is in fact theoretically solid The target is everyone interested in improving decisionmaking Law and Ethics for Paramedics Georgette Eaton, 2023-12-12 In order to tackle ethical and legal intricacies with confidence it is paramount that paramedics acquire firm understanding and knowledge as a foundation for their practice This essential guide equips you with the expertise needed to adeptly navigate these complexities enabling you to address them with assurance when they arise With contributions from experienced paramedic authors each chapter skilfully amalgamates the crucial principles of ethical

Children, Care and Crime Alison Gerard, Andrew McGrath, Emma Colvin, Annette Gainsford, 2022-11-02 The historical context of colonisation situates the analysis in Children Care and Crime of the involvement of children with care experience in the criminal justice system in an Australian jurisdiction New South Wales focusing on residential care policing the provision of legal services and interactions in the Children's Court While the majority of children in care do not have contact with the criminal justice system this book explores why those with care experience and Indigenous children are over represented in this system Drawing on findings from an innovative mixed method study court observations file reviews and qualitative interviews the book investigates historical and contemporary processes of colonisation and criminalisation The book outlines the impact of trauma and responses to trauma including inter generational trauma caused by policies of colonisation and criminalisation It then follows a child's journey through the continuum of care to the criminal justice system examining data at each stage including the residential care environment interactions with police the provision of legal services and experiences at the Children's Court Drawing together an analysis of the gendered and racialised treatment of women and girls with care experience in the criminal justice system the book particularly focuses on legacies of forced removal and apprenticeship which targeted Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women and girls Through analysing what practices from England and Wales might offer the NSW context our findings are enriched by further reflection on how decriminalisation pathways might be imagined While there have been many policy initiatives developed to address criminalisation in all parts of the study little evidence was found of implementation and impact To conclude the book examines the way that hope tropes are regularly deployed in child protection and criminal justice to dangle the prospect of reform and even to produce pockets of success only to be whittled away by well worn pathways to routine criminalisation The conclusion also considers what a transformative agenda would look like and how monitoring and accountability mechanisms are key to new ways of operating Finally the book explores strengths based approaches and how they might take shape in the child protection and criminal justice systems Children Care and Crime is aimed at researchers lawyers and criminal justice practitioners police Judges and Magistrates policy makers and those working in child protection the criminal justice system or delivering services to children or adults with care experience The research is multidisciplinary and therefore will be of broad appeal to the criminology law psychology sociology and social work disciplines The book is most suitable for undergraduate courses focusing on youth justice and policing and postgraduates researching in this field

Distributed Model Predictive Control with Event-Based Communication Groß, Dominic, 2015-02-25 In this thesis several algorithms for distributed model predictive control over digital communication networks with parallel computation are developed and analyzed Distributed control aims at efficiently controlling large scale dynamical systems which consist of interconnected dynamical systems by means of communicating local controllers Such distributed control problems arise in applications such as chemical processes formation control and control of power grids In distributed model predictive control the underlying idea is to solve a large scale model predictive control problem in a distributed fashion in order to achieve faster computation and better robustness against local failures Distributed model predictive control often heavily relies on frequent communication between the local model predictive controllers However a digital communication network may induce uncertainties such as a communication delays especially if the load on the communication network is high One topic of this thesis is to develop a distributed model predictive control algorithm for subsystems interconnected by constraints and common control goals which is robust with respect to time varying communication delays The Evolution of EU Law Paul Craig,Gráinne de Búrca,2021-08-19 This last decade has been particularly turbulent for the EU Beset by crises the financial crisis the rule of law crisis the migration crisis Brexit and the pandemic European Law has had to adapt and change in a way not previously seen First published in 1999 the goal then was to reflect on the important developments that had been made since the creation of the EEC That goal has not changed From EU Administrative Law through to the Regulation of Network Industries each chapter in this seminal work assess the legal and political forces that have shaped the evolution of EU law With new chapters covering the Rule of Law Judicial Reform Brexit Constitutional and Legal Theory Refugee and Asylum law and Data Governance this third edition of The Evolution of EU Law is a must read for any student or academic of EU law
