On Theory-Fiction and Other Genres Simon O'Sullivan, 2024-11-27 This book looks at three different kinds of writing practice theory fiction autofiction autotheory and art writing that are increasingly prevalent as genres or hybrid genres in the arts and critical humanities The chapters in the book operate as a critical survey of these new forms of writing many examples are listed whilst at the same time they each work towards some provisional definitions Some key precursors to these new genres are also identified The book explores what these new kinds of writing do What is particular to them or what do they add to those already existing styles and genres and especially the academic essay and article Key here is that each form of writing works in a performative manner or as a device that enables a shift in perspective A case is made for their urgency in relation to contemporary issues and concerns and for their importance in terms of being both from and for more marginalised communities The book concludes with a discussion of machine writing and especially our collaboration with artificial intelligence language models

Syntactic Variation and Genre Heidrun Dorgeloh, Anja Wanner, 2010-12-20 This volume explores the interplay of syntactic variation and genre How do genres emerge and what is the role of syntax in constituting them Why do certain constructions appear in certain types of text The book takes the concept of genre as a reference point for the description and analysis of morpho syntactic variation and change It includes both overviews of theoretical approaches to the concept of genre and text type in linguistics and studies of specific syntactic phenomena in English German and selected Romance languages Contributions to the volume make use of insights from attempts for text classification and rhetorical views on genre and reach from quantitative corpus based methodology to qualitative text based analyses The types of texts investigated cover spoken highly interactive and written forms of communication including selected genres of computer mediated communication Corpus data come from both synchronic and diachronic linguistic corpora such as LOB Brown FLOB Frown ARCHER and ICE Jamaica This spectrum both in approaches and data is meant to provide a theoretical foundation as well as a realistic view of the inherent complexity of form function relationships in syntax At the same time genre is treated as a category relevant beyond discourse studies consisting of forms and conventions at all levels of linguistic analysis including syntax The book is therefore of interest to linguists and graduate students in the area of syntax discourse analysis and pragmatics as well as to sociolinguists and corpus linguists working on register variation

Going to the Movies Dale Sutherland, 2004 Conversation Analysis and Sociological Theory Melisa Stevanovic, David Inglis, Anssi Peräkylä, Emmi Koskinen, 2024-08-22 The relations between Conversation Analysis (CA) sociology and social theory are complex often ambiguous and have sometimes been rather fraught While there might be some relatively high level of agreement amongst their practitioners on what CA is what it does and what it is meant to achieve that is not so much the case for the more open and broad terrains of sociology and social theory Moreover each of the domains in question has changed in orientation composition and academic location since CA first came into existence in the late 1960s While initially a child of sociology as CA has matured and extended its substantive and methodological reach it has become a large intellectual domain in its own right with inputs from and relevance for a host of other disciplines notably linguistics anthropology and psychology It is now no longer at all clear how CA relates to sociology and social theory what each side currently does or what it could bring to the other in the future
