After the Map William Rankin, 2016-07-01 For most of the twentieth century maps were indispensable. They were how governments understood, managed and defended their territory and during the two world wars they were produced by the hundreds of millions. Cartographers and journalists predicted the dawning of a map minded age where increasingly state of the art maps would become everyday tools. By the century's end however there had been a decisive shift in mapping practices as the dominant methods of land surveying and print publication were increasingly displaced by electronic navigation systems. In After the Map William Rankin argues that although this shift did not render traditional maps obsolete it did radically change our experience of geographic knowledge from the God's eye view of the map to the embedded subjectivity of GPS. Likewise older concerns with geographic truth and objectivity have been upstaged by a new emphasis on simplicity, reliability and convenience. After the Map shows how this change in geographic perspective is ultimately a transformation of the nature of territory, both social and political.

The East European Economies in the 1970s Alec Nove, Hans-Hermann Höhmann, Gertraud Seidenstecher, 2013-10-22 The East European Economies in the 1970s reviews the development of economic policy in Eastern Europe in the 1970s. This book includes individual country studies that compare and contrast both the aims of economic development and the results of the growth process as well as the instruments employed in economic policy. More specifically this book examines what has happened during the past decade after the fundamental changes in economic policy that occurred in the 1960s. This text is comprised of 10 chapters, the first of which provides a background on economic reform in Eastern Europe during the 1970s. Attention then turns to the economic policy methods and performance of the USSR after 1970. The chapters that follow focus on the German Democratic Republic, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Yugoslavia. This book concludes with a discussion on the economic system of Albania in the 1970s, focusing on the country's conservative radicalism, agriculture and sharp disputes on economic policy between 1974 and 1976. Throughout the book the emphasis is on how the process of reconstruction within the system has led to increasing differentiation of aims, institutions and instruments of economic policy between individual countries. This book will be of interest to political science students, political scientists, political economists and policy analysts.
