International Family Law Barbara Stark, 2017-03-02 International law has become part of everyday family law practice as lawyers everywhere are confronted with questions regarding the rights of mail order brides the adoption of children from other countries the abduction of children by foreign parents and domestic violence victims seeking asylum Indeed globalization is transforming family law even as families themselves are being redefined This book provides a practical overview of such issues and also examines the ways in which culture shapes family law in different countries It provides students with a useful introduction to challenging complicated and fascinating issues in international family law Finally by incorporating a comparative perspective it gives readers an opportunity to re examine their own legal systems

Handbook of Indigenous Public Policy Sheryl Lightfoot, Sarah Maddison, 2024-02-12 This ground breaking Handbook explores the key legal political and policy questions concerning the implementation of Indigenous rights across the world Expert contributors analyse the complex dynamics of contestation engagement advocacy and refusal between governments and Indigenous Peoples presenting a profound challenge to mainstream policy scholarship European Family Law Volume I Jens M. Scherpe, 2016-01-29 The Impact of Institutions and Organisations on European Family Law looks at the impact that institutions and organisations have had and continue to have on European family law. In many ways the chapters in this volume provide the easiest explanation for the existence of a European family law. While there is no European body that could actually legislate definitively on family law even the European Union has no such mandate there are still some obvious institutions that have a very direct impact on European family law. These can be divided into two groups namely those that have a direct impact such as the European Court of Human Rights and the European Union and those that have an indirect impact such as the Commission on European Family Law CEFL the Council of Europe and the International Commission on Civil Status ICCL CIEC as well as the private international law instruments of the Hague Conference HCCH and the EU. Together with religion all of these institutions are contributing to the creation of a European family law. This book and the others in the set will serve as an invaluable resource for anyone interested in family law. It will be of particular use to students and scholars of comparative and international family law as well as family law practitioners.

The International Law on the Rights of the Child Geraldine van Bueren, 2021-11-01. Only available in paperback version ISBN 90 411 1091 7. This volume draws upon the author's own experience to highlight the complexities behind the global violations of children's rights. Analysis and description are interwoven to provide a coherent study of the international status of children and the rights which attach to this status both for those familiar and unfamiliar with international law. The author demonstrates the potential of international law in protecting the rights of children even in states which are restructuring their economies. To be effective international law cannot be used in isolation and the text seeks to place the rights of the child in their cultural and historical contexts. All royalties from The International Law on the Rights of the Child are being donated to the International Save the Children Alliance to assist them in their work with children. Ms van Bueren combines skilfully an enormous amount of factual material with careful legal analysis and comment. This book will rapidly become indispensable to children's rights lawyers. C M Chinkin, University of Southampton. Among numerous publications dealing with the subject of promotion and protection of the rights of the child issued up to date G Van Bueren's The International Law on the Rights of the Child is the most serious monograph in the field of international law.

Social Protection for Africa's Children Sudhanshu Handa, Stephen Devereux, Douglas Webb, 2010-10-04. Social protection is an increasingly important part of the social policy dialogue in Africa and yet because of its relatively new place in a rapidly evolving agenda evidence on critical design choices such as targeting and on impacts of social protection interventions is mostly limited to case studies or small unrepresentative surveys. This impressive collection makes a major contribution to building the evidence base drawing on rigorous analysis of social protection programmes in several African countries as well as original research and thinking on key topical issues in the social protection discourse. Social Protection for Africa's Children is divided into four parts. The first presents economic and human rights based arguments for social protection as an integral part of the social policy menu in Africa. This is followed by a part on targeting which highlights some of the key policy trade offs faced when deciding between alternative target groups. The third part presents rigorous quantitative evidence on the impact of social cash transfers on children from programmes in South Africa, Malawi and Ethiopia and the final part addresses a set of issues related to social justice and human rights. This book significantly advances existing knowledge about social protection for children in Africa both conceptually and empirically. It makes a strong case for social protection interventions that address the short term amelioration and long term structural needs of children and shows that programming in this sector for children is both feasible and achievable. Policy makers and practitioners in this sector will have in this book the theoretical and empirical evidence necessary to advance social protection for Africa's children in the decades to come. Furthermore, this book should be an essential resource to postgraduates and students focussing on development economics in Africa.

Unprotected Oroub El-Abed, 2009. Based on personal interviews with Palestinian families, Oroub El-Abed examines the effects of displacement and the livelihood strategies that Palestinians have employed while living in Egypt. The author also analyzes the impact of fluctuating Egyptian government policies on the Palestinian way of life. With limited basic human rights and in the context of very poor living conditions for Egyptians in general, Palestinians in Egypt have had to employ an array of both tangible and intangible assets to survive. By providing an account of how they marshalled these assets, this book aims to contribute to the expanding literature on forced migration and the theoretical understanding of the livelihoods of Palestinians in their host countries.

The study reviews the legislation concerning the rights of children since the adoption of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) as well as questions such as reservations and the status of the CRC in domestic law. Mainly, the study focuses on laws adopted or amended by the national legislature, although it includes a section on constitutional provisions and also mentions some executive decrees and provincial legislation.
