

The background of the cover features a person lying down, reading a book. The person's face is partially visible, and they are wearing a dark, long-sleeved garment. The overall color palette is warm, with shades of orange, brown, and blue. In the upper left corner, there is a stylized, cartoonish face with large, expressive eyes and a wide, open mouth, appearing to be part of the background art.

Who S Who Vivid:

Questions and Answers F. Kiefer, 2012-12-06 In almost all principled accounts of questions questions are related to the corresponding answers Zellig Harris Harris 1978 1 for example maintains that all interrogative sentences can be derived by means of the independently established transformations of the language from sentences which assert that someone is asking about a disjunction of statements which are the relevant possible answers to that interrogative This amounts to the claim that a yes no question such as Will John stay is derived from I ask you whether John will stay and a wh question such as Who came is derived from something like I ask you whether A came or B came or or X came Though in generative grammar interrogatives are not derived from the corresponding declaratives the semantic interpretation of questions is akin to the syntactic source of questions posited by Harris Jerrold J Katz and Paul M Postal Katz Postal 1964 113 117 state a reading rule for Q the interrogative constituent which boils down to 1 in the case of yes no questions and to 2 in the case of wh questions 1 Tell me which of the following is true John will stay or John will not stay 2 Tell me which of the following is true A came or B came or or X came Thus the semantic interpretation of questions makes reference to the set of possible answers represented here by a disjunction of statements Lads' Love Samuel Rutherford Crockett, 1897 Naming and internal cognitive representation has been progress in the theory and the technology of computing machines which has opened the promising prospect of computer simulation of human and animal psychological functions What has developed is the possibility of constructing models of human psychology realizing them in computer hardware and testing the resultant machine performance against that of the human subject A second consideration which helps motivate the construction of models of internal representation is the considerable advances in experimental and theoretical knowledge of the human brain understood from the neuro anatomical view The likely profit of adopting a narrowly Behaviourist methodology shrinks in the face of our growing fine grained knowledge of cerebral wetware The purpose of this volume is selectively to exhibit some of the proposals concerning theories of internal representation which have been put forward in recent years The area of central concern is the resurgence of interest in the role of imagery in cognition which has taken place in the last fifteen years
