1. READING

Dear student, here you have some advice at the moment to read and achieve a good reading comprehension:

- Spend a few moments highlighting important background concepts and vocabulary words.
- Highlight key points to look out for.
- Read actively: Try to engage with the text actively by asking questions, making connections, and taking notes.
- Use the context of the sentence to understand unfamiliar words. Look for clues such as surrounding words and phrases.
- After reading a section, summarize what you have read in your own words. This can help you retain information and improve comprehension.
- Taking breaks during reading can help you maintain focus and avoid fatigue.

Charles Dickens and 'Hard Times'

Charles Dickens was one of the most famous and successful writers in England during the 19th century. He became very wealthy and successful in the 1850s when he gave advice. His books are still popular today and many people have read his books — Oliver Twist, A Tale of Two Cities, Great Expectations, and David Copperfield are some of his most famous examples.

But Dickens' life was not always so easy. When he was a child, his father was in prison because he was a small boy. His parents had money and were successful. When his father died, Charles had only just turned 12 years old. He had to leave school and work for some time. He was the first in his family to live on. He got a job as a factory worker but had to work late hours and had to "be careful" — a phrase for cheating others. He was paid very little money — about 12 pence a week. He had to work very hard and his father died. He had to work very hard and his father died.

A short time later, his father was sent to prison because he could not pay his debts. This happened to many people at that time. His father was sent to prison and Charles' mother, Fanny, and sister, Maria, went to live in the prison. Charles had to work for his mother and sister. He was paid very little money — about 12 pence a week. He had to work very hard and his father died. He had to work very hard and his father died.

1. In this exercise, you will read the next text, highlight the most important parts, and solve the answers, then check your answers with the correct one, if some of your answers are wrong, check the possible solutions and justify why do you think your answers were wrong considering text's content.

Mark the sentences TRUE OR FALSE
