

Earth Science

Planets (In order from distance from the sun.)

Mercury- Smallest planet. Mercury is extremely hot on the side facing the sun and extremely cold on the side that is away from the sun.

Venus- Venus is similar to the size of Earth. Venus has acid clouds that trap the sun's heat, which makes it very hot.

Earth- Earth is the only planet that supports life. Earth is 93 million miles away from the sun.

Mars- Mars is called the Red Planet. It has red soil and rocks that come from iron oxide, or rust.

Asteroid Belt- An asteroid belt, made of rocks and debris, separates the inner planets (Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars) from the outer planets (Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune).

Jupiter- The largest planet.

Saturn- Known for the large rings that surround the body of the planet.

Uranus- The last planet in our solar system. It's axis is tipped which causes it to rotate on its side.

What about Pluto? Pluto is known as a dwarf planet. Pluto is considered a dwarf planet because it is very small and followed a different orbit around the sun than the other planets.

Stars

It takes many (thousands) years for a star to appear to change location in the night sky. As a result, we see the same pattern of stars at different times of the year. Unlike stars, we see different locations of planets in the night sky because planets orbit the sun at a different path than earth does, so they appear to be in different locations throughout our lifetime.

Stars are often classified by their color.

- Blue stars are the hottest
- Yellow stars are the second hottest. (Example: The Sun)
- Red stars are the coolest, but are still very hot.

Moon

The moon revolves around the earth as the earth revolves, and rotates, around the sun. The moon gets its light from the sun. The shape we see of the moon changes from night to night. These are called Moon Phases.

The New Moon is the first phase of the moon's cycle. The lit part of the moon gets larger, from right to left. When this happens, the moon's phases are waxing. When the lit part of the moon gets smaller, the moon's phases are waning.

When less than half of the moon is lit, the phase is called a crescent.

When less than half of the moon is dark, the phase is called a gibbous.

When exactly half of the moon is lit, the phase is called a quarter.

The phases of the moon, in order, are: New moon, waxing crescent, first quarter, waxing gibbous, full moon, waning gibbous, last quarter, waning crescent, and then back to a new moon.

Earth

Earth rotates and revolves around the sun.

Parts of Earth, facing the sun, are experiencing day.

Parts of Earth, facing away from the sun, are experiencing night.

Earth is tilted on an imaginary line that runs through the center of the earth called an axis. The rotation tilts in various directions throughout the year, which results in a change of seasons. Parts of earth tilted toward the sun are experience
