Layton,Audra Van Wart,2025-08-27 Building the future STEM workforce requires robust federal investments to support the next generation of innovators as well as systemic changes to enable graduate and postdoctoral researchers to transition with confidence into the biomedical workforce This effort involves the transformation of the biomedical research enterprise and training environment at all levels but especially at the predoctoral and postdoctoral levels Innovative initiatives in education and training as well as career and professional development of biomedical trainees are necessary to build upon the robust biomedical workforce of today and create and sustain a diverse innovative and highly trained biomedical workforce of tomorrow An important aspect of supporting the biomedical workforce relates to changes within training and the research enterprise with opportunities for re imagining what STEM education should look like at different levels including providing agency for junior scientists in the field The future of the field should focus on inclusivity supporting trainees from different backgrounds and with diverse perspectives including but not limited to intersectional identities in race ethnicity gender sexual orientation first generation status and international talent in STEM This requires critical policy changes in order to support the transition of biomedical research professionals into the labor market

Resources in Education ,1999-04 Physical Science: Chemical Changes Globe Fearon,Seymour Rosen,1999 A catalogue of modern works on science and technology. 2nd, 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th-14th, 16th-19th, 22nd-25th, 35th, 39th, ed sir George Christopher T. Bartley,1882 Instituting Science Timothy Lenoir,1997 Early practitioners of the social studies of science turned their attention away from questions of institutionalization which had tended to emphasize macrolevel explanations and attended instead to microstudies of laboratory practice Though sympathetic to this approach as the microstudies included in this book attest the author is interested in re investigating certain aspects of institution formation notably the formation of scientific medical and engineering disciplines He emphasizes the manner in which science as cultural practice is imbricated with other forms of social political and even aesthetic practices This book offers case studies that reexamine certain critical junctures in the traditional historical picture of the evolution of the role of the scientist in modern Western society It focuses especially on the establishment of new disciplines within German research universities in the nineteenth century the problematic relationship that emerged between science industry and the state at the turn of the twentieth century and post World War II developments in science and technology After an Introduction and two chapters dealing with science and technology as cultural production and the struggles of disciplines to achieve legitimation and authority the author considers the following topics the organic physics of 1847 the innovative research program of Carl Ludwig as a model for institutionalizing science based medicine optics painting and ideology in Germany 1845 95 Paul Ehrlich s magic bullet the Haber Bosch synthesis of ammonia and the introduction of nuclear magnetic resonance instrumentation into the practice of organic chemistry

Big Data Factories Sorin Adam Matei,Nicolas Jullien,Sean P. Goggins,2017-11-27 The book proposes a systematic approach to big data collection documentation and development of analytic procedures that foster collaboration on a large scale This approach designated as data factoring emphasizes the need to think of each individual dataset developed by an individual project as part of a broader data ecosystem easily accessible and exploitable by parties not directly involved with data collection and documentation Furthermore data factoring uses and encourages pre analytic operations that add value to big data sets especially recombining and repurposing The book proposes a research development agenda that can undergird an ideal data factory approach Several programmatic chapters discuss specialized issues involved in data factoring documentation meta data specification building flexible yet comprehensive data ontologies usability issues involved in collaborative tools etc The book also presents case studies for data factoring and processing that can lead to building better scientific collaboration and data sharing strategies and tools Finally the book presents the teaching utility of data factoring and the ethical and privacy concerns related to it Chapter 9 of this book is available open access under a CC BY 4 0 license at link.springer.com
