Milter,John E. Stinson,Wim H. Gijselaers,2013-03-09 Almost thirty years ago a friend involved in the education profession told me that in his estimation much more was caught by students outside of classrooms than was taught within those hallowed walls This statement has stuck with me through years of personal schooling working as a high school teacher working in management serving as a management consultant and trainer and facilitating learning on university campuses across the US eastern Europe and Asia Learning by doing is certainly something most people have experienced But the fact that there is more opportunity to learn more things today as never before with knowledge doubling every 20 months makes learning by doing more complicated As organizations move to respond to the rapid changes in their environments people within those organizations must face the uncertainty and ambiguity that comes with such conditions The one thing most futurists agree on is that the future will be very different than the present Exponential change has become commonplace Companies used to worry about redefining their goals and specific describing their place in an industry Today in order to survive they must be constantly addressing the issues inherent in redefining their industries Cracking the AP Economics Macro & Micro Exams, 2018 Edition Princeton Review,2017-09-26 EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SCORE A PERFECT 5 Equip yourself to ace

The Economics of the Oil and Gas Industry Joshua Yindenaba Abor,Amin Karimu,Runar Brännlund,2023-03-06 Energy is a key resource for transformational development globally Oil and gas continue to play a key role in this sector irrespective of the gradual transition towards renewables and will continue to do so in most developing and emerging economies in the near future The industry is complex and highly capital intensive not only with significant risk but also with significant benefits Such a complex but important sector is generally not well understood both in academic and policy circles This book fills this void by serving as a comprehensive reference to the oil and gas sector with a focus on emerging markets and developing economies EMDEs It offers in depth coverage of the critical and contemporary issues in the economics of the oil and gas industry by carefully integrating the relevant theoretical underpinnings and practical policy issues across the value chain of the industry in relation to the development fiscal arrangements and the economic and financing aspects of the industry These insights will significantly deepen the understanding of the industry and extend knowledge of the sector in ways that existing books do not The book includes relevant cases and thus will serve as a valuable resource for students taking courses in market analysis of the oil and gas industry energy economics development economics and finance environmental and resource economics the political economy of the extractive industry and development studies Researchers and practitioners working in these areas will also find the book to be a useful reference guide

Climate Change and Adaptation for Food Sustainability Ferdous Ahmed, Abul Quasem Al-Amin, Zeeda Fatimah Mohamad, 2022-01-03

This book assesses the vulnerability impacts of climate change on food security by examining a 50 years scenario 2015 2065 and following a top down approach Importantly looking at the sustainable food production the authors compared the cost benefit of adaptation costs from 2015 to 2065 It was found that a 15% adaptation capacity is more efficient for Malaysia in order to combat the climate change effects on the food sector This book has developed a quantitative adaptive model namely the Malaysian Climate and Economy MCE model based on the dynamic Computable General Equilibrium CGE modeling structure to examine food sustainability and adaptation strategies Malaysia experiences an unusual combination of droughts and extreme rainfall events that can be attributed to climate change These unusual events and consequences leave Malaysian policymakers looking for ways to make Malaysia self sufficient in terms of agriculture It is assumed that climate change effects may result in increasing food insecurity and vulnerability in the future Policy measures are in place to lessen the likely climatic effects overall but there is an urgent need to develop an adaptation policy for the future
