MacDonald,Carole P. Biggam,Galina V. Paramei,2018-11-15 This volume presents authoritative and up to date research in colour studies by specialists across a wide range of academic disciplines including vision science psychology psycholinguistics linguistics anthropology onomastics philosophy archaeology and design The chapters have been developed from papers and posters presented at the Progress in Colour Studies PICS2016 conference held at University College London in September 2016 The book continues the series from the earlier PICS conferences which have become renowned for their insights into colour in language and cognition In the present book all chapters have been rigorously peer reviewed and revised to ensure the highest standards throughout The chapters are grouped into three sections Colour Perception and Cognition The Language of Colour and The Diversity of Colour Each section is preceded by a short introduction drawing together the themes of its chapters There are over 120 colour illustrations Darkness, Depression, and Descent in Anglo-Saxon England Ruth Wehlau,2019-05-20 This collection of essays examines the motifs of darkness depression and descent in both literal and figurative manifestations within a variety of Anglo Saxon texts including the Old English Consolation of Philosophy Beowulf Guthlac The Junius Manuscript The Wonders of the East and The Battle of Maldon Essays deal with such topics as cosmic emptiness descent into the grave and recurrent grief In their analyses the essays reveal the breadth of this imagery in Anglo Saxon literature as it is used to describe thought and emotion as well as the limits to knowledge and perception The volume investigates the intersection between the burgeoning interest in trauma studies and darkness and the representation of the mind or of emotional experience within Anglo Saxon literature Lexicalization patterns in color naming Ida Raffaelli,Daniela Katunar,Barbara Kerovec,2019-10-09 The volume presents sixteen chapters focused on lexicalization patterns used in color naming in a variety of languages Although previous studies have dealt with categorization and perceptual salience of color terms few studies have been consistently conducted in order to investigate phonological morphological syntactic and semantic devices languages use to form color terms The aim of this volume is to approach color data from a relativist and typological perspective and to address some novel viewpoints in the research of color terms such as a the focus on language structure per se in the study of lexicalization data b investigation of inter and intra language structural variation c culture and language contact as reflected in language structure Topics of this book have a broad appeal to researchers working in the fields of linguistics anthropology sociology and psychology Lighting, color, environment and complexity an abridged historical review Lucia Ronchi, 2015 The Power of Words Graham D. Caie, Carole Hough, Irené Wotherspoon, 2006 This volume comprises essays in lexicography lexicology and semantics by leading international experts in these fields The contributions cover Old Middle and Present Day English and Scots and specific subjects include medical vocabulary colour lexemes and semantic and pragmatic meaning in terms for politeness money and humour In the area of Old English studies there are articles on kinship terminology and colour lexemes and in Middle English a semantic and syntactic study of the overlapping of the verbs dreden and douten Many of the essays make use of the Historical Thesaurus of English project at the University of Glasgow and pay tribute to its Director Professor Christian Kay e g one article demonstrates how the HTE a project which is at the interface between historical semantics and lexicography may present a rich resource for information about the lexicalization of concepts within our culture such as changing social attitudes in the area of will consent and coercion Other resources such as The Linguistic Atlas of Early Middle English and the Oxford English Dictionary provide a rich source for information on historical lexicography semantics and editing A number of essays concern the Scots language such as an analysis of evaluative terms in modern Scots speech and writing the rich potential of rhyme in Scots and the role of lexicon in th fronting in Glaswegian A Revolution in Colour Giorgio Riello, Maria Hayward, Ulinka Rublack, 2024-09-19 This major volume aims to re colour the European world of dress c 1300 1800 New dyes created one of the most important visual experiences of the period yet their story has been side lined by a focus on visual experiences shaped by the high arts Meanwhile theatrical productions and period films still abound with broad assumptions about the growing dominance of black clothing for elites during the period while ordinary people are imagined having worn coarse greys and bleached garments This volume presents clear evidence that even the clothing of the middle classes could be much more expensive than paintings and that coloured clothing and accessories were ubiquitous across society Contributors shed new light on the economic environmental and cultural dimensions of colour in dress The range of dyes expanded considerably in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries drawing on Asian and Mediterranean knowledge new collections of recipes and the greater diversity of plants available through New World trade Working creatively with organic plant animal and mineral materials to make colours involved considerable knowledge pleasure and skill The creation of colour through dyes thus reveals a whole range of global agricultural and craft technologies that can inspire future material worlds and transforms our understanding of Europe's cultural heritage New Trends of Research in Ontologies and Lexical Resources Alessandro Oltramari, Piek Vossen, Lu Qin, Eduard Hovy, 2013-02-01 In order to exchange knowledge humans need to share a common lexicon of words as well as to access the world models underlying that lexicon. What is a natural process for a human turns out to be an extremely hard task for a machine: computers can't represent knowledge as effectively as humans do, which hampers, for example, meaning disambiguation and communication. Applied ontologies and NLP have been developed to face these challenges. Integrating ontologies with possibly multilingual lexical resources is an essential requirement to make human language understandable by machines and also to enable interoperability and computability across information systems and ultimately in the Web. This book explores recent advances in the integration of ontologies and lexical resources, including questions such as building the required infrastructure (e.g., the Semantic Web) and different formalisms, methods, and platforms for eliciting, analyzing, and encoding knowledge contents (e.g., multimedia, emotions, events, etc.). The contributors look towards next-generation technologies, shifting the focus from the state of the art to the future of Ontologies and Lexical Resources. This work will be of interest to research scientists, graduate students, and professionals in the fields of knowledge engineering, computational linguistics, and semantic technologies.
