Beyond the Bubble Test Linda Darling-Hammond, Frank Adamson, 2014-06-16 Performance assessment is a hot topic in school systems and educators continue to analyze its costs benefits and feasibility as a replacement for high stakes testing Until now researchers and policymakers have had to dig to find out what we know and what we still have to learn about performance assessment Beyond the Bubble Test How Performance Assessments Support 21st Century Learning synthesizes the latest findings in the field and not a moment too soon Statistics indicate that the United States is in danger of falling behind if it fails to adapt to our changing world The memory and recall strategies of traditional testing are no longer adequate to equip our students with the skills they need to excel in the global economy Instead teachers need to engage students in deeper learning assessing their ability to use higher order skills Skills like synthesizing information understanding evidence and critical problem solving are not achieved when we teach to multiple choice exams Examples in Beyond the Bubble Test paint a useful picture of how schools can begin to supplement traditional tests with something that works better This book provides new perspectives on current performance assessment research plus an incisive look at what's possible at the local and state levels Linda Darling Hammond with a team of leading scholars bring together lessons learned new directions and solid recommendations into a single readily accessible compendium Beyond the Bubble Test situates the current debate on performance assessment within the context of testing in the United States This comprehensive resource also looks beyond our U S borders to Singapore Hong Kong and other places whose reform mindedness can serve as an example to us

Cora Wilson Stewart and Kentucky's Moonlight Schools Yvonne Baldwin, 2006-03-03 The first woman elected superintendent of schools in Rowan County Kentucky Cora Wilson Stewart 1875 1958 realized that a major key to overcoming the illiteracy that plagued her community was to educate adult illiterates To combat this problem Stewart opened up her schools to adults during moonlit evenings in the winter of 1911 The result was the creation of the Moonlight Schools a grassroots movement dedicated to eliminating illiteracy in one generation Following

Stewart's lead educators across the nation began to develop similar literacy programs within a few years. Moonlight Schools had emerged in Minnesota, South Carolina, and other states. Cora Wilson Stewart and Kentucky's Moonlight Schools examines these institutions and analyzes Stewart's role in shaping education at the state and national levels. To improve their literacy, Moonlight students learned first to write their names and then advanced to practical lessons about everyday life. Stewart wrote reading primers for classroom use, designing them for rural people, soldiers, Native Americans, prisoners, and mothers. Each set of readers focused on the knowledge that individuals in the target group needed to acquire to be better citizens within their community. The reading lessons also emphasized the importance of patriotism, civic responsibility, Christian morality, health, and social progress. Yvonne Honeycutt Baldwin explores the elusive line between myth and reality that existed in the rhetoric Stewart employed in order to accomplish her crusade. As did many educators engaged in benevolent work during the Progressive Era, Stewart sometimes romanticized the plight of her pupils and overstated her successes. As she traveled to lecture about the program in other states interested in addressing the problem of illiteracy, she often reported that the Moonlight Schools took one mountain community in Kentucky from moonshine and bullets to lemonade and Bibles. All rhetoric aside, the inclusive Moonlight Schools ultimately taught thousands of Americans in many underserved communities across the nation how to read and write. Despite the many successes of her programs, when Stewart retired in 1932, the crusade against adult illiteracy had yet to be won.

Cora Wilson Stewart presents the story of a true pioneer in adult literacy and an outspoken advocate of women's political and professional participation and leadership. Her methods continue to influence literacy programs and adult education policy and practice. The Testing Trap George Hillocks, 2002-04-12. Do statewide assessments really do what they are supposed to do? Through interviews with over three hundred teachers and administrators, Hillocks examines whether state writing tests in Illinois, Kentucky, Oregon, New York, and Texas actually improve students' ability to express their thinking in writing. Ultimately, Hillocks argues that the majority of existing tests actually have a harmful effect on the way students are taught to write. In addition to providing analyses of assessments that do not encourage good writing, The Testing Trap contrasts them to those that do. Concluding with practical procedures for examining and evaluating writing assessments, this book is a provocative and essential read for administrators, teachers, policymakers, parents, and all who care about the education of our children.

Conversations with Kentucky Writers Linda Elisabeth LaPinta, 2014-10-17. Kentucky and Kentuckians are full of stories, which may be why so many present-day writers have Kentucky roots. Whether they left and returned like Wendell Berry and Bobbie Ann Mason or adopted Kentucky as home like James Still and Jim Wayne Miller or grew up and left for good like Michael Dorris and Barbara Kingsolver, they have one connection: Kentucky has influenced their writing and their lives. Linda Elisabeth Beattie explores this influence in twenty intimate interviews. Conversations with Kentucky Writers was more than three years in the making as Beattie traveled across the state and beyond to capture oral histories on tape. Her exhaustive knowledge of these authors helped her draw out personal revelations about their work their lives and the nature of writing When Still concludes his interview with I believe I've told you more than anybody he could be speaking for any of Beattie's subjects Aspiring writers will learn that Mason submitted twenty stories to the New Yorker before one was accepted and that Still wrote articles for Sunday school magazines There's plenty of advice Dorris tells budding authors to get real jobs keep journals and read everything even cereal boxes and Marsha Norman reminds playwrights that it is not the business of the theater to provide writers with a living Kingsolver advises Read good stuff and write bad stuff until eventually what you're writing begins to approximate what you're reading Beattie's collection includes striking self-portraits of such writers as Sue Grafton Leon Driskell James Baker Hall Fenton Johnson George Ella Lyon Taylor McCafferty Ed McClanahan Sena Naslund Chris Offutt Lee Pennington and Betty Layman Receveur What most distinguishes these moving conversations from other author interviews is their focus on creativity on the teaching of writing and on the authors' strong sense of place As Wade Hall writes in his foreword all twenty writers recognize that their works have been significantly influenced by their Kentucky experience This collection offers insights into Kentucky's rich and flowering literary heritage

International Teacher Judgement Practices Val Klenowski, 2017-10-02 Human judgements underlie all assessments regarding the quality of students' understandings and such judgements are conceptually complex and elusive The study of the complexity of the judgement process is in its infancy but clearly warrants further critical investigation However what is demonstrated from the wide variety of international teacher judgement practices presented in this volume is that teacher judgement requires a lot more than a set of standards criteria and annotated examples Understandings of assessment theory by pre-service teachers through to more experienced teachers and opportunities for all to critically reflect and consider their judgements of student work are vital Teachers are struggling to maintain their interpretive freedom at the local professional level in contexts where central policies promote standardisation or regulation of judgement practice for accountability purposes This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment in Education: principles, policy, practice
