DIRECTIONS: Choose the correct answer from the multiple choice options that refer to the paragraph below. When deciding, consider the proper usage of quotation marks and any other material needed to conform to correct MLA documentation style (consider brackets and ellipses) when quoting the exact words of a source.

During these leisure times, those old notions about freedom would steal over me again. When in Mr. Gardner's employment, I was kept in such a perpetual whirl of excitement, I could think of nothing, scarcely, but my life; and in thinking of my life, I almost forgot my liberty. I have observed this in my experience of slavery—that whenever my condition was improved, instead of its increasing my contentment, it only increased my desire to be free, and set me to thinking of plans to gain my freedom. I have found that, to make a contented slave, it is necessary to make a thoughtless one. It is necessary to darken his moral and mental vision, and, as far as possible, to annihilate the power of reason. He must be able to detect no inconsistencies in slavery; he must be made to feel that slavery is right; and he can be brought to that only when he ceases to be a man.

- (The quotation begins on p. 58; the last words on that page are "He must be able to detect no inconsistencies in slavery; he must be made to feel"; the rest of the quotation is on p. 59.)
- This is the Works Cited page entry for the paragraph above:

Douglass, Frederick. Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass. 1845. Ed. Philip Smith. New York: Dover Publications, 1995.
