

Guide for STUDENTS
Tutorial 6 (to be held in week 7) – Cash and receivables

Again, there is a lot to cover this week. We will focus on only some of the worked examples in the tutorial and leave you to check your answers to other questions at the end of the week when the solutions are released.

1. Do E7.3 Carlen et al. (2016) which is reproduced below for your convenience and check your answer against the suggested solution in the guide to students at the end of the week

List internal control weaknesses over cash receipts and suggest improvements.
(LO3)

E7.3 The following control procedures are used for over-the-counter cash receipts:

1. All over-the-counter receipts are registered by three clerks who share a cash register with a single cash drawer.
2. To minimise the risk of robbery, cash in excess of $100 is stored in an unlocked attaché case in the stockroom until it is deposited in the bank.
3. At the end of each day the total receipts are counted by the cashier on duty and reconciled to the cash register tape total.
4. The accountant deposits the cash received in the bank and then records the day's receipts.

Required

- a. For each procedure, explain the weakness in internal control and identify the control principle that is violated.
- b.  For each weakness, suggest a change in procedure that will result in good internal control.

Procedure	Weakness	Principle	Recommended change
1.	Inability to establish responsibility for cash.	Establishment of responsibility	There should be separate cash drawers and register codes for each clerk.
2.	Cash is not adequately protected from theft.	Physical, mechanical, and electronic controls.	Cash should be stored in a safe until it is deposited in the bank.
3.	Cash is not independently counted.	Independent internal verification.	A cashier office supervisor should count cash.
4.	The accountant should not handle cash.	Segregation of duties.	The cashier's department should make the deposits.
