

Newton's Three Laws of Motion. Engineering mechanics is formulated on the basis of Newton's three laws of motion, the validity of which is based on experimental observation. These laws apply to the motion of a particle as measured from a nonaccelerating reference frame. They may be briefly stated as follows.

First Law. A particle originally at rest, or moving in a straight line with constant velocity, tends to remain in this state provided the particle is not subjected to an unbalanced force. Fig. 1-1a.

Second Law. A particle acted upon by an unbalanced force $\mathbf{F}$ experiences an acceleration $\mathbf{a}$ that has the same direction as the force and a magnitude that is directly proportional to the force. Fig. 1-1b.* If $\mathbf{F}$ is applied to a particle of mass m , this law may be expressed mathematically as

$$\mathbf{F} = ma \quad (1-1)$$

Third Law. The mutual forces of action and reaction between two particles are equal, opposite, and collinear. Fig. 1-1c.

Fig. 1-1

*Stated another way, the unbalanced force acting on the particle is proportional to the time rate of change of the particle's linear momentum.
