

3.2 Forwarding a Requisition for Further Approval

It is possible to forward your notification onto another person for further approval. There could be various reasons why you would want to forward a notification, e.g.: you may believe that the request requires further approval, or you might regard the request as beyond your approval authority. You can approve and forward a requisition or forward without approving.

In the following example, the approver wants to forward the requisition onto another approver without approving the request himself.

How to do it...
