We Who Work the West Kiara Kharpertian, 2020-06-01 We Who Work the West examines literary representations of class labor and space in the American West from 1885 to 2012 Moving from Mar a Amparo Ruiz de Burton's representations of dispossessed Californio ranchers in the mid nineteenth century to the urban grid of early twentieth century San Francisco in Frank Norris's McTeague to working and unemployed cowboys in the contemporary novels of Cormac McCarthy and Larry McMurtry Kiara Kharpertian provides a panoramic look at literary renderings of both individual labor physical tangible and often threatened handwork and the epochal transformations of central institutions of a modernizing West the farm the rancho the mine the rodeo and the Native American reservation The West that emerges here is both dynamic and diverse its on the ground organization of work social class individual mobility and collective belonging constantly mutating in direct response to historical change and the demands of the natural environment The literary West thus becomes more than a locus of mythic nostalgia or consumer fantasy about the American past It becomes a place where the real work of making that West as well as the suffering and loss it often entailed is reimagined
