

Breach of Contract Complaint Form

For Material/Equipment Suppliers

Before you file a complaint

Before filling out a complaint, you may want to read "Resolving Disputes With Your Contractor."

You must give the contractor written notice that you plan to file a complaint with us at least 30 calendar days before you file the complaint. Even if you are almost out of time to file your complaint, send your notice now and file your complaint 30 calendar days later. (See next page for help.)

If your complaint involves a commercial structure

If you supplied materials or equipment for use on a large commercial structure, you must file your complaint against a commercial bond.

If you supplied materials or equipment for use on a small commercial structure and:

The contractor you are filing against has only a commercial bond, you must file your complaint against the commercial bond.

The contractor you are filing against has only a residential bond, you must file against the residential bond.

The contractor you are filing against has both a commercial and residential bond, you may file against either bond.

Filing against commercial bonds requires court action

To access a commercial bond, you must file in court or begin arbitration before filing a complaint with us.

You must deliver a copy of the court complaint or documents showing you began arbitration and a completed CCB complaint form to the CCB and to the contractor's bonding company. Deliver these copies by certified mail, return receipt requested. The CCB and the contractor's bonding company must receive the copy before a judgment or arbitration award is issued and by the earliest of these dates:

90 calendar days after you file the court complaint or begin arbitration

14 calendar days before the first day of trial or arbitration

30 calendar days before a judgment or arbitration award is issued

Complaints against residential bonds

If you are filing against a residential bond, you do not need to file in court or notify the bonding company before filing a complaint with us.

Attaching required documents to your complaint

You will need to attach certain documents, such as invoices, to your complaint. We can process your complaint more quickly if you:

Use only 8 1/2 by 11 size paper. Small items should be taped to the paper.

Send legible copies, not originals.

If handwritten, use a black ink pen (not pencil).

Use white or light paper – other colors do not copy well.

Do not highlight portions of documents
