Limestone in the Built Environment Bernard J. Smith, 2010 Limestone is a highly successful and widely used building material found in many important historic buildings and new monuments around the world Whilst its success reflects its durability under a wide range of environmental conditions there are still important questions surrounding the selection use and conservation of building limestones In order to make best use of new limestone today and to conserve old limestone most effectively we need to bring modern research methods to bear on understanding the characteristics of different limestones what mortars to use and how key lime stones have responded to polluted atmospheres This volume brings together recent interdisciplinary research on these issues illustrating the diversity of innovative techniques that are now being applied to furthering our understanding of building limestones

The Climate Change Convention and Developing Countries J. Gupta, 2013-03-09 The climate change problem can only be effectively dealt with if global anthropogenic greenhouse gas GHG emissions can be reduced substantially Since the emission of such gases is closely related to the economic growth of countries a critical problem to be addressed by the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change FCCC is how will the permissible emission levels be shared between industrialised ICs and developing countries DCs The thesis of this book is that the long term effectiveness of the FCCC runs the risk of a horizontal negotiation deadlock between countries and the risk of vertical standstill within countries if there is little domestic support for the domestic implementation of measures being announced in international negotiations The research question is Can one observe trends towards horizontal deadlock and vertical standstill and if yes how can the treaty design be improved so as to avoid such potential future bottlenecks The research focuses on the perspectives of domestic actors on the climate convention and related issues in four developing countries India Indonesia Kenya and Brazil The following key findings emerge from the research 1 Handicapped negotiating power The common theme of the foreign policy of DCs is that ICs are responsible for the bulk of the GHG emissions and need to take appropriate domestic action

New Life for Old Dwellings George Leonard Rygg, Gerald E. Sherwood, 1975

The Great Clod Gary Snyder, 2020-06-09 For the full course of his remarkable career Gary Snyder has continued his study of Eastern culture and philosophies From the Ainu to the Mongols from Hokkaido to Kyoto from the landscapes of China to the backcountry of contemporary Japan from the temples of Daitokoji to the Yellow River Valley it is now clear how this work has influenced his poetry his stance as an environmental and political activist and his long practice of Zen Growing up in the Pacific Northwest Asia became a vocation for Snyder While most American writers looked to the capitals of Europe for their inspiration Snyder looked East American letters is profoundly indebted to this geographical choice Long rumored to exist The Great Clod collects more than a dozen chapters several published in The Coevolution Quarterly almost forty years ago when Snyder briefly described this work as The China Book and several others the majority never before published in any form Summer in Hokkaido Wild in China Ink and Charcoal Stories to Save the World Walking the Great Ridge these essays turn from being memoirs of travel to prolonged considerations of art culture natural history and religion Filled with Snyder's remarkable insights and briskly beautiful descriptions this collection adds enormously to the major corpus of his work certain to delight and instruct his readers now and forever

Kinoshita, 2024-10-13 A lavishly illustrated tour of the famed adventurer's globetrotting travels, written by a celebrated translator of Polo's writings. At the age of seventeen, Marco Polo left his Venetian home on a continent-spanning adventure that lasted for nearly a quarter century. Imprisoned in Genoa five years later, he collaborated with Arthurian romance writer Rustichello of Pisa on a work they called The Description of the World. That book recounted all the greatest marvels and great diversities of Greater Armenia, Persia, the Tartars, India, and many other provinces, a story that made Polo famous for all time. In Marco Polo and His World, Sharon Kinoshita brings these marvels to life, describing the myriad commodities, plants, people, and animals that Marco encountered and recorded. Copiously illustrated, this book offers a vibrant introduction to Marco Polo's astounding adventures. Remaking Chinese Urban Form Duanfang Lu, 2006-09-27 In this pioneering study of contemporary Chinese urban form, Duanfang Lu provides an analysis of how Chinese society constructed itself through the making and remaking of its built environment. She shows that as China's quest for modernity created a perpetual scarcity, as both a social reality and a national imagination, the realization of planning ideals was postponed. The work unit, the socialist enterprise, or institute gradually developed from workplace to social institution, which integrated work, housing, and social services. The Chinese city achieved a unique geography made up in large part of self-contained work units. Remaking Chinese Urban Form provides an important reference for academics and students conducting research on China. It will be a key source for courses on Asia in architecture, urban planning, geography, sociology, and anthropology at both the graduate and undergraduate level. The insightful yet accessible introduction to urban China will also be of interest to architects, urban designers, and planners, as well as general audience who wish to learn about contemporary Chinese society. Intercellular

Communication in Plants: Studies on Plasmodesmata B.E.S. Gunning, A. Robards, 2012-12-06 This Volume attempts to summarise and integrate a field of study in its entirety, the nature of plasmodesmata and the part these inter-cellular connections play in the life of the plant. Except in the all-embracing early reviews of the pre-electron microscope era, there has been a tendency for the subject to be approached from disparate points of view plant physiologists developmental biologists biophysicists virologists and cytologists all contributing to the corpus of knowledge but often without a full appreciation of each others goals and problems and sometimes misinterpreting each others findings In June 1975 a group of about 40 specialists in these various disciplines all with a common interest in intercellular communication in plants met for two days presented papers talked argued and in general pooled their knowledge Out of a synthesis of manuscripts and discussions there has emerged by an editorial process of elimination of unnecessary duplication and insertions to ensure completeness of coverage the present book not so much a straight record of a conference as a Monograph based on the proceedings All of the Chapters are reviews and most include hitherto unpublished data or theoretical treatments

Northern Wei (386-534) Scott Pearce,2023 An innovative contribution to East Asian and Chinese history of the medieval period Northern Wei 386 534 brings to a new level the study of the little known Northern Wei dynasty 386 534 Emerging from collapse of the Han empire the founders of Northern Wei had come south from the grasslands of Inner Asia to conquer the rich farmlands of the Yellow River plains With complex interactions of Chinese and Inner Asians which evolved over centuries Northern Wei laid the foundation for a new model for empire in East Asia which in the seventh century would lead to the Tang
