Tourism Guidelines For Practical Assessment Tasks 22:

Tourism Leszek Butowski, 2016-05-04 Tourism is that area of activity of contemporary man that touches on various fields of human interest. Representatives of numerous academic disciplines find it intriguing for its exceptionally interdisciplinary character. Conditions for and consequences of the development of tourism are investigated among others by economists, geographers, sociologists, experts in culture, anthropologists, management and social policy specialists, and even by representatives of some natural sciences. Researchers dealing with tourism need to meet strict methodological requirements but they get access to a very interesting subject of scientific inquiry which combines social, cultural, economic and environmental aspects to create an ontologically new quality offering epistemological challenges.

Medical Travel Brand Management Frederick J. DeMicco, Ali A. Poorani, 2022-10-27 This new volume which complements the editors' earlier volume Medical Travel Brand Management: Success Strategies for Hospitality Bridging Healthcare H2H explores the multitude of medical travel services and discusses the integration of traveling medical guests with destination providers, hospitality healthcare professionals and travel service providers. The editors also address the impact the COVID-19 pandemic has made on the travel industry which has motivated them to bring together major players, renowned authors, practitioners and researchers to create this book to help prepare the medical tourism market to not only recover from the devastating effects of the pandemic but also to provide tools and cases that will help to structure successful destinations for medical travel. From chapters on branding to assessing accreditation and post-care quality metrics, Drs DeMicco, Poorani and their fellow contributors take the reader through the critical phases of the medical travel journey: pre-visit travel, on-site care, discharge and follow-up care. The authors address critical issues facing medical health and wellness travel from both macro and micro perspectives. Presentations of best practices and strategies demonstrate how some destinations have built, renewed or engaged various stakeholders to construct or enhance their medical tourism destination. Medical Travel: Hospitality Bridging Healthcare H2H also showcases best practices and innovative ways of designing and operating a profitable and entrepreneurial practice. Quality issues, aesthetics and legal issues related to inbound and outbound medical tourism are also presented. The book explores the evolving nature of hospital design and the complex relationship between people and medicine as manifested in the relationship of hospital aesthetics to patient satisfaction. Importantly, the book also includes a chapter addressing medical health travel during the pandemic which describes how the pandemic has revolutionized telehealth and the medical travel industry which can leverage the advances made in digital health and telemedicine. This volume will be an important resource for the four main players at the center of medical travel: medical travelers themselves, government agencies, intermediaries and health and wellness providers. The selected best practices, research cases, innovative strategies, SWOT analysis and toolkits address the aims of all stakeholders.

Best Practice Guidelines for Great Ape Tourism Elizabeth J. Macfie, Elizabeth A. Williamson, 2010 Executive summary Tourism is often proposed 1 as a strategy to fund conservation efforts to protect great apes and their habitats 2 as a way for local communities to participate in and benefit from conservation activities on behalf of great apes or 3 as a business A few very successful sites point to the considerable potential of conservation based great ape tourism but it will not be possible to replicate this success everywhere The number of significant risks to great apes that can arise from tourism require a cautious approach If great ape tourism is not based on sound conservation principles right from the start the odds are that economic objectives will take precedence the consequences of which in all likelihood would be damaging to the well being and eventual survival of the apes and detrimental to the continued preservation of their habitat All great ape species and subspecies are classified as Endangered or Critically Endangered on the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species IUCN 2010 therefore it is imperative that great ape tourism adhere to the best practice guidelines in this document The guiding principles of best practice in great ape tourism are Tourism is not a panacea for great ape conservation or revenue generation Tourism can enhance long term support for the conservation of great apes and their habitat Conservation comes first it must be the primary goal at any great ape site and tourism can be a tool to help fund it Great ape tourism should only be developed if the anticipated conservation benefits as identified in impact studies significantly outweigh the risks Enhanced conservation investment and action at great ape tourism sites must be sustained in perpetuity Great ape tourism management must be based on sound and objective science Benefits and profit for communities adjacent to great ape habitat should be maximised Profit to private sector partners and others who earn income associated with tourism is also important but should not be the driving force for great ape tourism development or expansion Comprehensive understanding of potential impacts must guide tourism development positive impacts from tourism must be maximised and negative impacts must be avoided or if inevitable better understood and mitigated The ultimate success or failure of great ape tourism can lie in variables that may not be obvious to policymakers who base their decisions primarily on earning revenue for struggling conservation programmes However a number of biological geographical economic and global factors can affect a site so as to render ape tourism ill advised or unsustainable This can be due for example to the failure of the tourism market for a particular site to provide revenue sufficient to cover the development and operating costs or it can result from failure to protect the target great apes from the large number of significant negative aspects inherent in tourism Either of these failures will have serious consequences for the great ape population Once apes are habituated to human observers they are at increased risk from poaching and other forms of conflict with humans They must be protected in perpetuity even if tourism fails or ceases for any reason Great ape tourism should not be developed without conducting critical feasibility analyses to ensure there is sufficient potential for success Strict attention must be paid to the design of the enterprise its implementation and continual management capacity in a manner that avoids or at least minimises the negative impacts of tourism on local communities and on the apes themselves Monitoring programmes to track costs and impacts as well as benefits is essential to inform management on how to optimise tourism for conservation benefits These guidelines have been developed for both existing and potential great ape tourism sites that wish to improve the degree to which their programme contributes to the conservation rather than the exploitation of great apes Assembly Bill California. Legislature. Assembly,1987
