In what ways are the different leadership styles among principals in the Nordic countries related to teachers' attitudes and behaviours and students' achievements? What are the associations between professional development, job satisfaction, and self-efficacy? Can collegial work and school leader feedback improve teachers' self-efficacy in Nordic classrooms? What characterizes high-performing students in mathematics within the Nordic countries? These are some of the questions that are discussed in this collection of articles. The issues are based on the results of the OECD studies PISA and TALIS. The articles aim to provide input for policy discussions and to further policy development within the Nordic countries. Therefore, the main target groups are educational ministers and

School Policies? John Benedicto Krejsler, Leif Moos, 2021-03-23 This book offers an original contribution to the area of international research on comparative education policies and the influence of transnational agencies on national school policy and reform With a focus on grasping what the Nordic model or the Nordic dimension means in school and educational policy the book explores in depth the school policy contexts of the five Nordic countries Denmark Finland Iceland Norway and Sweden It demonstrates how these particular national contexts engage with and contextualize transnational collaboration on issues like school reform accountability evidence and what works and digitalization The book situates these policy issues over a long period of time while integrating the latest developments and reforms It demonstrates how context matters It shows how the often elusive but pervasive Nordic dimension can only be fully understood by painstaking scrutiny of the five national contexts their particular trajectories and mutual interactions in formal and informal education traditions of democracy and their students have performed relatively well in the ICCS assessments. Nonetheless, citizenship education continues to evolve and has received increasing attention in recent educational reforms, indicating policymakers' understanding that schools play an important role in establishing democratic values among future citizens. Data from ICCS can be used to analyze, discuss, and reflect on the status of civic and citizenship education and can contribute to the discourse on the potential role of education in contributing to sustainable democracies for a common future. However, teaching citizenship and learning democracy are two different things. While young people can be taught about democracy in school, it is vital that schools work together with the wider community in which youth operate to strengthen civic understanding and values for all young people regardless of their social and economic background. Northern Lights Séamas Ó Catháin, 2001. Challenges to practicum. The authors have explored professional practice knowledge and the ways practicum is dealt with in teacher education. They report from Research and Development projects based on collaboration between universities and school communities. Empirical studies have been carried out in Australia, Canada, China, Denmark, Finland, Norway, and Sweden. Communication about practicum is reframed. Preservice teachers' experiences during practicum serve as a point of departure for improving teacher education. The book is a must for everyone committed to quality in initial teacher education, including preservice teachers, school leaders, and local supervisors. This volume explores new and different ways to think about the construction and evaluation of the practicum that students encounter. Contributors ask the reader to consider the assumptions that the practicum is based on, question these assumptions, and strive to find new and better ways to contribute to the autonomy, professionalism, and moral development of emerging teachers. The focus is clearly on creating conversational and learning spaces for students that encourage them to think explicitly about theory and its application to practice and vice versa. The book not only challenges our thinking but also provides rich examples of research and evaluation in this area which help us to hear the voices of those involved in the practicum in fresh and insightful ways. Reflections by Roslin Brennan, Kemmis, Head of the School of Education, Charles Sturt University, Wagga Wagga, Australia. Class and Stratification Analysis Gunn Elisabeth Birkelund, 2013-02-06. Emphasizes unsolved issues and developments within class and stratification analysis, discussing both theoretical and methodological innovations and revisions. In this book, comparative analysis has also revealed cross-national differentiation in stratification processes, partly related to welfare state arrangements and national policies. Invited Lectures from the 13th International

The Value of Arts and Culture for Regional Development

Lisbeth Lindeborg, Lars Lindkvist, 2013-08-21 In this new volume 28 Scandinavian researchers and others who are active in arts and culture seek to answer the questions What has been the effect of regional and local investment in arts and culture

And what positive and negative experiences have there been This book describes and analyzes the extent to which cultural investments at local and regional levels have stimulated development and led to essential processes of change for the community in general Of special interest is how different places manage to turn the tide What do their development processes involve Which ways and means do they use to go forward in order to change their paths and start anew These are just a few of the important questions addressed in this book One of the most important findings is that while you can never transfer the successful renewal of one place to another like a blueprint certain common patterns in the cultural processes are discernible The contributors to this book show the breadth of theoretical tools that can be used to increase awareness of the significance of culture for regional development Throughout the book readers will find a multitude of theoretical concepts from entrepreneurship theory organizational institutionalism and cultural economy to cultural planning and art management This book will appeal to scholars and practitioners of urban and regional studies and cultural and creative economics
