Creativity in Research and Invention in the Physical Sciences Mildred Benton,1961 The Journal of the Manchester Geographical Society ,1894 Research in Education ,1973-12 The Occult Mind Christopher I. Lehrich,2012-08-24 Given the historical orientation of philosophy is it unreasonable to suggest a wider cast of the net into the deep waters of magic By encountering magical thought as theory we come to a new understanding of a thought that looks back at us from a funhouse mirror The Occult Mind Divination like many critical modes involves reading signs and magic more generally can be seen as a kind of criticism that takes the universe seen and unseen known and unknowable as its text In The Occult Mind Christopher I Lehrich explores the history of magic in Western thought suggesting a bold new understanding of the claims made about the power of various belief systems In closely interlinked essays on such disparate topics as ley lines the Tarot the Corpus Hermeticum writing and ritual in magical practice and early attempts to decipher Egyptian hieroglyphics Lehrich treats magic and its parts as an intellectual object that requires interpretive zeal on the part of readers observers Drawing illuminating parallels between the practice of magic and more recent interpretive systems structuralism deconstruction semiotics Lehrich deftly suggests that the specter of magic haunts all such attempts to grasp the character of knowledge Offering a radical new approach to the nature and value of occult thought Lehrich s brilliantly conceived and executed book posits magic as a mode of theory that is intrinsically subversive of normative conceptions of reason and truth In elucidating the deep parallels between occult thought and academic discourse Lehrich demonstrates that sixteenth century occult philosophy often touched on issues that have become central to philosophical discourse only in the past fifty years Applied Mechanics Reviews ,1974 British American Journal of Medical and Physical Science Roy Fontaine,1850 Growth Patterns in Physical Sciences and Biology Jaun-Manuel Garcia-Ruiz,Enrique Louis,P. Meakin,Leonard M. Sander,2012-12-06 During the past decade interest in the formation of complex disorderly patterns far from equilibrium has grown rapidly This interest has been stimulated by the development of new approaches based primarily on fractal geometry to the quantitative description of complex structures increased understanding of non linear phenomena and the introduction of a variety of models such as the diffusion limited aggregation model that provide paradigms for non equilibrium growth phenomena Advances in computer technology have played a crucial role in both the experimental and theoretical aspects of this enterprise Substantial progress has been made towards the development of comprehensive understanding of non equilibrium growth phenomena but most of our current understanding is based on simple computer models Pattern formation processes are important in almost all areas of science and technology and clearly pattern growth pervades biology Very often remarkably similar patterns are found in quite diverse systems In some case dielectric breakdown electrodeposition fluid fluid displacement in porous media dissolution patterns and random dendritic growth for example the underlying causes of this similarity is quite well understood In other cases vascular trees nerve cells and river networks for example we do not yet know if a fundamental relationship exists between the mechanisms leading the formation of these structures
