Physical Therapy Visit
Visit documentation includes relevant history and significant physical assessments pertinent to current visit
Visit documentation demonstrates skilled service (specialized skills, knowledge and judgment) and application of interventions per orders
Visit documentation demonstrates reproducible and individualized interventions (i.e. "standing and repeat, 10 reps x 2 sets at 10 degree" vs. "10 flexes") relating back to function or impairment (i.e. gait strength for sit to stand transfer)
Visit documentation includes patient and/or caregiver's immediate response or reaction to skilled services provided as well as response or changes in behavior to previously administered skilled services
Visit documentation includes statement regarding progression, regression or plateau
Visit documentation includes comparison of objective measures and/or function from prior visits toward patient outcomes
Visit documentation identifies plan for next steps based on current visit results and communication if needed with team members
Maintenance Therapy - Additional Documentation
Visit documentation demonstrates detailed rationale that explains the need for the skilled maintenance services (why it cannot be done by non skilled personnel and why it is medically necessary)
Visit documentation demonstrates the complexity of the services to be performed
Visit documentation includes any other pertinent characteristics of the patient and/or home
All visits under maintenance are performed by the licensed therapist (PT) and not assistants
Documentation does not reflect that services were rendered due to absence of a caregiver (absence of a caregiver does not make a service non-skilled service or skilled service)
