Unit 1 Photosynthesis and the carbon cycle

Topic 1.1 Photosynthesis

Exercise 1.1A How light level affects photosynthesis

- 1 The type of plant; the mass of the plant; the temperature

Apparatus	Amount of light	Volume of gas collected in cm <sup>3</sup>
A	high	18.3
B	low	7.2
C	none	0.5

- 3 Plants photosynthesise faster when they have more light.

Exercise 1.1B The effect of different colours of light on the rate of photosynthesis

- 1 The colour of the light / cellophane.
 2 The number of bubbles produced in one minute.
 3 Any three from: the light intensity (strength); the type of water the water plant was in; the quantity of water plant; the type of water plant; the temperature.
 4 For example:

Colour of light	Number of bubbles per minute
	1st try	2nd try	3rd try	mean
white	11	13	12	12
red	10	12	11	11
green	4	5	6	5
blue	8	12	10	10

5

- 6 Accept any valid conclusion that can be made from these results, for example: plants photosynthesise fastest in white light; photosynthesis happens faster in blue light than in green light.

Exercise 1.1C Turning an idea into a hypothesis that can be tested

- 1 Accept any answer that:
- is in the form of a clearly phrased hypothesis
  - relates to the effect of carbon dioxide on the rate of photosynthesis of an aquatic plant
  - can be tested by experiment.

For example, a possible hypothesis could be: Water plants give off more bubbles per minute when they are given more carbon dioxide.

- 2 Look for:
- a clear statement of the independent variable and dependent variable
  - at least two other variables that will be controlled
  - a clearly explained method, with enough detail that someone else could follow it, including a labelled diagram of the apparatus
  - a clear description of how the independent variable will be changed
  - a clear description of how and when results will be collected
  - a results chart, with headings and units (but no results)
  - a prediction based on scientific understanding.

The Entanglement Alva Noë, 2025-02-25 Why human nature is an aesthetic phenomenon and why we need art and philosophy to understand ourselves In The Entanglement philosopher Alva Noë explores the inseparability of life art and philosophy arguing that we have greatly underestimated what this entangled reality means for understanding human nature Life supplies art with its raw materials but art Noë argues remakes life by giving us resources to live differently Our lives are permeated with the aesthetic Indeed human nature is an aesthetic phenomenon and art our most direct and authentic way of engaging the aesthetic is the truest way of understanding ourselves All this suggests that human nature is not a natural phenomenon Neither biology cognitive science nor AI can tell a complete story of us and we can no more pin ourselves down than we can fix or settle on the meaning of an artwork Even more art and philosophy are the means to set ourselves free at least to some degree from convention habit technology culture and even biology In making these provocative claims Noë explores examples of entanglement in artworks and seeing writing and speech and choreography and dancing and examines a range of scientific efforts to explain the human Challenging the notions that art is a mere cultural curiosity and that philosophy has been outmoded by science The Entanglement offers a new way of thinking about human nature the limits of natural science in understanding the human and the essential role of art and philosophy in trying to know ourselves
