Barron,2017-05-31 Tattoos are a highly visible social and cultural sight from TV series that represent the lives of tattoo artists and their interactions with clients to world class sports stars and the social actors we meet on a daily basis who display visible tattoo designs Whereas in the not to distant past tattoos were commonly culturally perceived to represent an outward sign of social non conformity or even deviance tattoos now increasingly transcend class gender and age boundaries and arguably are now more culturally acceptable than they have ever been But why is this the case and why do so many social actors elect to wear tattoos Tattoo Culture explores these questions from historical cultural and media perspectives but also from the heart of the culture itself from the dynamics of the tattoo studio the work of the artist and the world of the tattoo convention to the perspective of the social actors who bear designs to investigate the meanings which lie being the images It critically examines the ways in which tattoos alter social actors sense of being and their relationship with time in the semiotic ways with which they communicate to themselves or to the wider world key elements of their bodily and personal identity and sense of being Mammoth Books presents Mami Wata Simon Kurt Unsworth,2012-07-26 When I was first asked to contribute to Exotic Gothic 3 which was to feature Gothic influenced stories in non Gothic environments I agreed without really thinking about it Unsworth explains and then spent a long time struggling trying to work out how precisely I was going to manage it or quite how to make a start I knew what I wanted to do sort of but not exactly how to do it so one day alarmingly close to the deadline I did a fun thing I freewheeled through Google Using a small document about Zambian myths and cultures I found online I set the story in Zambia for no reason other than an old family friend lives there and it seemed exotic in Gothic terms I used one Zambian word from it as a search term and read what came up took one intriguing Zambian term from the search results and searched for that etc and disappeared into Google s merry depths I ended up with an academic paper about a particular myth a travel blog about a sort of beer made from corn and a weird little my God s better than your God blog by a kid in Africa and somewhere in the middle of that the story appeared Mammoth

Books presents Lethal Legends Mark Valentine, Michael Kelly, Simon Kurt Unsworth, Terry Dowling, 2012-07-26 THE WOODS Michael Kelly Michael Kelly reveals The Woods was written for an anthology seeking regional horror and ghost stories I d just read Hemingway s Hills Like White Elephant s Now in no way am I comparing myself to Hemingway but I wanted to write a similarly brief tale with only two main characters and where the horror was off stage As well the setting had to be distinctly Canadian What I thought could be more Canadian than the frozen north and allusions to mythical beasts MAMI WATA Simon Kurt Unsworth Unsworth reveals When I was first asked to contribute to Exotic Gothic 3 which was to feature Gothic influenced stories in non Gothic environments I agreed without really thinking about it and then spent a long time struggling trying to work out how precisely I was going to manage it or quite how to make a start I knew what I wanted to do sort of but not exactly how to do it so one day alarmingly close to the deadline I did a fun thing I freewheeled through Google Using a small document about Zambian myths and cultures I found online I set the story in Zambia for no reason other than an old family friend lives there and it seemed exotic in Gothic terms I used one Zambian word from it as a search term and read what came up took one intriguing Zambian term from the search results and searched for that etc and disappeared into Google s merry depths I ended up with an academic paper about a particular myth a travel blog about a sort of beer made from corn and a weird little my God s better than your God blog by a kid in Africa and somewhere in the middle of that the story appeared THE AXHOLME TOLL Mark Valentine In the following story the book called The MS in a Red Box really exists the author reveals All of the legends about the Isle and about Beckett s assassins are also genuine except so far that of the Toll and their final place of rest or unrest TWO STEPS ALONG THE ROAD Terry Dowling Two Steps Along the Road came out of a conversation with US editor Danel Olson Dowling explains where we discussed me doing a ghost story set in Vietnam for Exotic Gothic 3 and the interesting possibilities it might provide for delivering atmosphere and an interesting perspective on familiar things Before I knew it I was blending two separate elements that were demanding attention the notion of a root form behind all hauntings regardless of what form they took and the unnerving realization that the eyes of a quite attractive teaching colleague would be truly terrifying to behold if they were set just a tad closer together The ideas were intended for very different stories but as so often happens they decided they were meant for each other The Mammoth

Mammoth Books presents Demonic Dreams Christopher Fowler, Norman Partridge, Robert Shearman, 2012-07-26 Oh I Do Like to Be Beside the Seaside Christopher Fowler Christopher Fowler explains Seaside came about firstly because I was commissioned to write a story for the World Horror Convention souvenir book and as the event was to take place in Brighton it seemed logical to set a tale on the South coast of England I had written a fantasy novel Calabash some years earlier hinting at the dark madness of such seaside towns which are the antithesis of their Mediterranean counterparts I thought of the depressing Morrissey song Every Day is Like Sunday which captures the awfulness of English resorts Coincidentally Kim Newman and I were discussing the inherent creepiness of pantomime dames and I decided it was time to give vent to my horror of these coastal pleasure domes I wish I d thought to include screaming gangs of hen nighters as well And I thought it was a nice touch to have everyone in the story telling the hero to fuck off until he finally does Featherweight Robert Shearman I don t like writing at home much admits the author Home is a place for sleeping and eating and watching afternoon game shows on TV There are too many distractions So years ago I decided I d only write first drafts in art galleries And the best of them all is the National Gallery in London a pigeon s throw from Nelson s Column I can walk around there with my notebook thinking up stories and if I get bored there are lots of expensive pictures to look at Perfect A lot of those paintings however have angels in them They re all over the place wings raised halos gleaming perching on clouds blowing trumpets hovering around the Virgin Mary as if they re her strange naked childlike bodyguards And I began to notice That whenever the writing is going well the angels seemed happy and would smile at me And whenever the words weren t coming out right when I felt sluggish when I thought I d rather take off and get myself a beer they d start to glare I wrote this story in the National Gallery Accompanied by a lot of glaring angels Enjoy Lesser Demons Norman Partridge I was surprised to receive an invitation for S T Joshi s Black Wings reveals Partridge an anthology of Lovecraftian fiction Although I knew S T admired my work I ve never quite seen myself as a Mythos writer While I respect H P Lovecraft and his contribution to horror I ve never felt that his worldview or maybe I should say universeview meshed with mine In the end that s what made the story work at least for me I concentrated on my differences with Lovecraft and approached the material from a place where Jim Thompson would be more comfortable than HPL And I m delighted that so many people have enjoyed the tale it was a lot of fun to write
