Pathways to Institutional Improvement with Information Technology in Educational Management C.J. Patrick Nolan, A. Fung, Margaret Brown, 2006-04-11 New Zealand schools have experienced unprecedented change during the last decade Radical restructuring of the frameworks for both curriculum and qualifications followed a movement towards self management in 1989 The curriculum framework consisting of seven essential learning areas has been progressively introduced with completion not expected until 2002 The new Qualifications Framework based on unit standards was launched in 1994 The introduction of unit standards signalled an emphatic movement towards the use of internal assessment for awarding qualifications at the senior secondary school level

Each course had unit standards defined which described the outcomes and the performance criteria that would be used to determine whether or not the standard had been achieved Approximately five to eight standards would be used for each full year course and each standard had a number of credits associated with it The plan which has since been modified was for these credits to contribute to a National Certificate of Educational Achievement at years 12 and 13 and other subject specific

National Certificates Secondary schools were faced with the task of recording and reporting 1 unit standard results to the New Zealand Qualifications Authority. This by itself was not a major issue as the significant suppliers of CSIS had modules available which satisfied this need. At this time a model was being presented to school audiences demonstrating how the recording, reporting and evaluation of assessment data relating to the curriculum framework could be relatively straightforward IF there was a common assessment currency across the school. This model was converted into software form for demonstration purposes.

Autism and the iPad™: Strengthening Communication and Behavior (2nd Edition) Brian Friedlander, Christine Besko-Maughan, 2017-08-01. This new edition of popular laminated reference guide Autism and the iPad by Brian Friedlander and Christine Besko Maughan helps educators select the most effective apps to use with students on the autism spectrum including ones that focus on intentional expressive communication, speech and language development, organization, visual schedules, social skills, positive behavior supports, reward reinforcement, video modeling to strengthen targeted behaviors, student assessment. The guide also provides information on apps that turn the iPad into speech generating devices and strategies for using these programs with non-verbal students to help them express their wants and needs and control their environment.

Introduction to Management John R. Schermerhorn, 2011. Completely updated and revised this eleventh edition arms managers with the business tools they need to succeed. The text presents managerial concepts and theory related to the fundamentals of planning, leading, organising and controlling with a strong emphasis on application. It offers new information on the changing nature of communication through technology. Focus is also placed on ethics to reflect the importance of this topic especially with the current economic situation. This includes all new ethics boxes throughout the chapters. An updated discussion on the numerous legal law changes over the last few years is included as well. Managers will be able to think critically and make sound decisions using this text because the concepts are backed by many applications, exercises and cases.

Virtual Environments for Teaching & Learning L. C. Jain, 2002. There is a trend to offer courses by virtual means. This approach has definite advantages. For example, virtual programs target professionals who would otherwise have to leave their jobs to pursue the degree. An enormous proportion of universities are in the process of developing courses in a virtual environment. This book deals with virtual environments for teaching and learning. The chapters can be considered to be representative of the many approaches taken and the diversity of applications. The different perspectives and different solutions adopted are the result of intense research in various countries in the area of e-learning.
