A World of Private Higher

Education Daniel C. Levy, 2024-05-13 A World of Private Higher Education is the definitive treatment of a sector accounting for a third of the world's 200 million higher education enrolment yet remaining largely unknown even to scholars of higher education and widely mischaracterized when it is considered by stakeholders or the general public Beyond the eye-popping numbers several inter-related thematic findings regarding the Private and the Public underscore the subject matter's importance First private/public differences are significant it matters that so many students are in a sector that not long ago was only marginal in much of the world Second private higher education PHE itself is increasingly diverse with significant and private/public differences Third the overlaying of the first two realities yields increasing diversity in private/public higher education distinctions Especially for its pioneering mapping of PHE globally regionally and nationally the book draws on the pioneering dataset of the pioneering scholarly program for research on PHE Program for Research on Private Higher Education Unprecedented in geographical scope the dataset is unprecedented in longitudinal coverage too dating back to 2000 Empirical methods allow for extensive analysis and theoretical analysis draws on key private public concepts embedded in literatures on privatization nonprofit studies and policy models For the major challenge of penetrating inside the increasingly diverse private sector of higher education Levy revises his heralded and widely employed PHE typology

The Middle East and South Asia 2014 Malcolm Russell, 2014-08-21 This volume is designed to place in context the passionate controversies and emotional attachments of the two billion people who live, study, work, love, and die in the Middle East and South Asia. Understanding these regions means more than annually updated details of the governments, politics, cultures, and economies of the twenty-four nations and assorted territories. Special chapters address significant issues of continuing international importance, including access to water, the role of oil, and the 2011 Arab Spring. Both regions after all contain types of people misunderstood and often intensely disliked by others. Where religion intrudes on politics, the Afghan Taliban oppose educating girls, Hindu fanatics rampage in India, Iranian militiamen shoot demonstrators, Islamic extremists impose sharia, and Jewish Ultra Orthodox send women to the back of the bus. Readers bombarded with superficial news bites and slanted reporting might never sense the other accomplishments of these same societies: Islamic charities and societies bring relief to the impoverished; Israel's scholars win Nobel prizes; and most Indians cherish long-standing religious toleration. The author of this volume attempts to let the reader draw conclusions from the evidence.

Architecture, Power and Religion in Lebanon Ward Vloeberghs, 2015-11-24 In Architecture, Power and Religion in Lebanon Ward Vloeberghs explores Rafiq Hariri's patronage and his posthumous legacy to demonstrate how religious architecture becomes a site for power struggles in contemporary Beirut. By tracing the 150-year-long history of the Muhammad al-Amin Mosque, Lebanon's principal Sunni mosque, and the subsequent development of the site as a commemoration venue, this account offers a unique illustration of how architecture, religion, and power become discursively and visually entangled. Set in a multi-confessional society marked by social inequalities and political fragmentation, this interdisciplinary study analyses how architectural practice and urban reconfigurations reveal a nascent personality cult communal mourning and the consolidation of political territory in relation to constantly shifting circumstances
