While much attention has been paid to the commemoration of conflict in the twentieth century this book is the first to consider conflict memory in the long term arguing that modern practices were not created out of the mud of the trenches but evolved from much longer practices From the fourteenth century to the present day this work analyses the changing commemoration and memories of British battlefields at home and overseas from Bannockburn 1314 to Bosworth 1485 to Basra 2003 9 Across these seven centuries there has been a series of recurring post battle rituals that have shaped and continue to shape memories of conflict Three distinct but overlapping periods of memory can be delineated In the later Middle Ages battlefields were consecrated by the burial of the fallen and often by the erection of a battlefield cross or chapel

or chantry to pray for the dead The second phase began with the Protestant Reformation in the 1530s when pilgrimage and prayers for the dead were abolished and battlefield chantries were dissolved and many battlefield crosses were demolished Memories shifted from the dead to the living especially the bodies of surviving veterans who commemorated the conflict by their wounds and from soil and stone to print and ink The third phase began in the eighteenth century when antiquaries and others established new monuments on past battlefields Monuments to survivors and the dead were established on contemporary battlefields such as Waterloo once again hailed as sacred ground hallowed by bloodshed fit destinations for a pilgrimage Not just officers but ordinary soldiers began to be memorialized by name on the battlefield culminating in the cult of the names of the dead enshrined by the creation of the War Graves Commission in 1917 and the idea that battlefields should be preserved unchanged as seen in modern heritage management Drawing on a wide variety of literary and historical sources and taking a uniquely longue dur e approach the book explores and links memory making practices from across the period to reconsider the ways in which battlefields are commemorated and re commemorated In so doing it makes a unique contribution to a wide range of historiographical fields British history since the fourteenth century memory studies heritage studies landscape history conflict archaeology and military history

Carl Cavanagh Hodge, 2016-11-25 This book is a comparative study of military operations conducted by modern states between the French Revolution and World War I It examines the complex relationship between political purpose and strategy on the one hand and the challenge of realizing strategic goals through military operations on the other It argues further that following the experience of the Napoleonic Wars military strength was awarded a primary status in determining the comparative modernity of all the Great Powers that military goals came progressively to distort a sober understanding of the national interest that a genuinely political and diplomatic understanding of national strategy was lost and that these developments collectively rendered the military and political catastrophe of 1914 not inevitable yet probable

W. Beckett,2016-06-30 What exactly is military history Forty years ago it meant battles campaigns great commanders drums and trumpets It was largely the preserve of military professionals and was used to support national history and nationalism Now though the study of war has been transformed by the war and society approach by the examination of identity memory and gender and a less Euro centric and more global perspective Generally it is recognised that war and conflict must be integrated into the wider narrative of historical development and this is why Ian Becketts research guide is such a useful tool for anyone working in this growing field It introduces students to all the key debates issues and resources While European and global perspectives are not neglected there is an emphasis on the British experience of war since 1500 This survey of British military history will be essential reading and reference for anyone who has a professional or amateur interest in the subject and it will be a valuable introduction for newcomers to it The Chartist General Edward Beasley,2016-11-03 General Charles James Napier was sent to confront the tens of thousands of Chartist protestors marching through the cities of the North of England in the late 1830s A well known leftist who agreed with the Chartist demands for democracy Napier managed to keep the peace In South Asia the same man would later provoke a war and conquer Sind In this first ever scholarly biography of Napier Edward Beasley asks how the conventional depictions of the man as a peacemaker in England and a warmonger in Asia can be reconciled Employing deep archival research and close readings of Napier s published books ignored by prior scholars this well written volume demonstrates that Napier was a liberal imperialist who believed that if freedom was right for the people of England it was right for the people of Sind even if freedom had to be imposed by military force Napier also confronted the messy aftermath of Western conquest carrying out nation building with mixed success trying to end the honour killing of women and eventually discovering the limits of imperial interference intricacies of napoleon s political or personal life      A Timeline of The Journey of Humankind George A. Brooks,2024-07-23

The story of humankind begins 13.8 billion years ago when the universe came into being instantly everywhere at the same time. There was only darkness until the stars began to light up. This begins the long journey of humankind through the formation in supernovae of the elements that will form our bodies to the formation of the sun, the earth, and the moon until our home brings forth life. Our planet has survived numerous events that threatened to extinguish that life but ultimately our most remote ancestors began to walk the plains, mountains, and valleys of Africa. In remote prehistory, groups of people migrated out of Africa eventually to populate the whole world. The author provides a timeline for the major events that eventually shaped the modern world. In the earliest settlements, humans domesticated plants and animals. Over time, they formed city states. Civilizations rose and fell, passing along little snippets of knowledge to those who followed. The journey acquaints the reader with these great civilizations and the people who gave us the arts and sciences and the rules of law for living together. The civilizations of Athens and Rome became the foundation of western civilization. In the last two thousand years, world history is dominated by the spread of Christianity. Therefore, the journey takes us through those events in Judea to the kings, queens, popes, and emperors of Europe while events are also unfolding in Africa, the Middle East, Asia, and the Americas. The modern world has been largely shaped by the colonial period beginning about 1500 AD. Much attention is given to events since then which are proximate to the world we experience today. World Wars I and II then shaped most of the modern nation states in which we live. The author allows the reader to stand apart and be an observer of the journey of humankind. We have taken many different paths to arrive in the modern world with wonderfully diverse appearances, languages, and traditions but we are all one family. The author hopes we will embrace our differences and act together as the family we are while shaping the future.
