Waterloo Battlefield Guide:

Waterloo Battlefield Guide David Buttery, 2013-05-20 A British military historian offers an expert introduction to The Battle of Waterloo in this essential companion for battlefield visitors In Belgium on June 18th 1815 the Battle of Waterloo marked the climax of the Napoleonic Wars and a major turning point in world history The combined forces of the Duke of Wellington and Field Marshal von Blücher delivered a devastating defeat to Napoleon Though the outcome would have a major influence on the shape of Europe for more than a century the battle itself cannot be properly understood without a detailed study of the landscape in which it was fought Using eyewitness accounts and an intimate knowledge of the terrain historian David Buttery vividly reconstructs the events of Waterloo as he takes readers across the battleground as it exists today He provides essential context for understanding pivotal episodes in combat including the day long struggle for the chateau at Hougoumont the massive French infantry assaults repeated cavalry charges the fall of La Haye Sainte the violent clashes in the village of Plancenoit the repulse of the Imperial Guard and rout of the French army Waterloo Andrew Uffindell, Michael Corum, 2003 Waterloo Andrew Uffindell, Michael Corum, 2002-01-01 What better way to read the momentous Battle of Waterloo than to follow the movements of the main military commanders on that fateful day 18 June 1815 For the British side of the action we dog the footsteps and learn about the decisions and actions of The Duke of Wellington For the French perspective we follow both Napoleon Bonaparte and his right hand man Marshal Ney who in fact played the more critical role Battlefield guide to Waterloo Stephen Maughan, Waterloo - a Battlefield Guide S. Henry Dwan, 2020-11 The battle of Waterloo was fought over 200 years ago and has continued to attract undiminishing interest ever since Marking as it did the culmination of the Napoleonic Wars and the extinguishing of the fascinating career of that conflict's namesake Just as the battle itself continues in its popularity so too does the battlefield itself In a normal year anywhere up to 500 000 tourists descend on the location for a fulfilling experience which pays tribute to the Belgian people's justifiable investment and pride in this historic site Tourism here practically began before the gunpowder smoke had dissipated tourists arrived generally from Brussels to see for themselves the gory site of a freshly sewn Napoleonic battlefield while the suffering of desperately wounded men and horses was still in its early stages At the time it was just another battlefield and the soldiers present expected another battle would be fought in a day or two few if any fully appreciated the severity of the French defeat and even fewer could have gauged the decisiveness of the encounter But as subsequent events unfolded and it became apparent that the long Great French War was finally at an end so Waterloo grew to be the punctuation mark of history that it is today Under four miles wide and less than two and a half deep Waterloo is an easily accessible battlefield with a total area of about eight to ten square miles which can be covered on foot by many people in 1 2 days or perhaps 3 if a wider experience of each location is desired The battlefield area is protected by a Belgian law laid down in 1914 which was extended to cover a wider area in 2015 Features on the battlefield remain significantly unchanged and the modern encroachment of tarmac and sign posts do little to detract from the overall impression Buildings present in 1815 appear largely as they did then with the notable exceptions of Papelotte and the Plancenoit church La Haye Sainte Mont St Jean Farm Le Caillou Chantelet and the remains of Hougomont all present the visitor with the rewarding image as seen by the soldiers present on 18th June The same is true of those surviving locations that form a part of the 1815 campaign Much of the Quatre Bras and Ligny battlefields can still be seen and locations in Wavre Namur and Charleroi have also been happily preserved Following the battle many monuments memorials plaques and steles were erected mounted in the widespread locations of the battlefield and campaign area The most significant of these being the Lion Mound raised half way down Wellington's right flank Love it or hate it for its alteration to this important part of the battlefield the mound offers the most spectacular of views and allows the visitor to fully appreciate the scale of the battlefield as a whole From here it is easy to look into the ground before La Belle Alliance and visualise the attacks by the French Cavalry and the Imperial Guard I have also covered the visitor centre which in 2015 was transformed into perhaps the best historical battlefield centre in the world It includes a very absorbing 4D film of the battle which put the viewer right in the middle of events you see bayonets and horses muzzles actually come at you from the screen And also a very fine display of uniforms and weapons from the battle the most accurate representation of 1815 uniforms you will probably see Hougomont too has seen some transformation and with renovation and a cinematic show now included In all the battlefield will not disappoint anyone remotely interested in history for a Napoleonic buff it cannot be missed Finally I have included an orders of battle to the guide by way of an appendix and guidance

Britons and their Battlefields Ian Atherton, 2024-08-19 While much attention has been paid to the commemoration of conflict in the twentieth century this book is the first to consider conflict memory in the long term arguing that modern practices were not created out of the mud of the trenches but evolved from much longer practices From the fourteenth century to the present day this work analyses the changing commemoration and memories of British battlefields at home and overseas from Bannockburn 1314 to Bosworth 1485 to Basra 2003 9 Across these seven centuries there has been a series of recurring post battle rituals that have shaped and continue to shape memories of conflict Three distinct but overlapping periods of memory can be delineated In the later Middle Ages battlefields were consecrated by the burial of the fallen and often by the erection of a battlefield cross or chapel or chantry to pray for the dead The second phase began with the Protestant Reformation in the 1530s when pilgrimage and prayers for the dead were abolished and battlefield chantries were dissolved and many battlefield crosses were demolished Memories shifted from the dead to the living especially the bodies of surviving veterans who commemorated the conflict by their wounds and from soil and stone to print and ink The third phase began in the eighteenth century when antiquaries and others established new monuments on past battlefields Monuments to survivors and the dead were established on contemporary battlefields such as Waterloo once again hailed as sacred ground hallowed by bloodshed fit destinations for a pilgrimage Not just officers but ordinary soldiers began to be memorialized by name on the battlefield culminating in the cult of the names of the dead enshrined by the creation of the War Graves Commission in 1917 and the idea that battlefields should be preserved unchanged as seen in modern heritage management Drawing on a wide variety of literary and historical sources and taking a uniquely longue dur e approach the book explores and links memory making practices from across the period to reconsider the ways in which battlefields are commemorated and re commemorated In so doing it makes a unique contribution to a wide range of historiographical fields British history since the fourteenth century memory studies heritage studies landscape history conflict archaeology and military history

A Voice from Waterloo Edward Cotton,2007-11 Waterloo as told by one who fought and became one of its first historians The title of this book is doubly appropriate Cotton was a soldier of the 7th Hussars who had served in Spain and became part of Wellington s polyglot army sent to Belgium to stand between Napoleon and his ambitions to regain the Imperial throne of France He was in an ideal position to view the battle as a participant and his own experiences fighting with the light cavalry are retold in detail After the battle Cotton saw an opportunity to make his living from the most momentous battle of the age and following his army discharge returned to Mont St Jean to become a battlefield guide and hotelier Cotton s hotel still stands and is now the Waxworks Museum and part of the modern visitors centre Years of telling the story of the Battle of Waterloo enabled Cotton to fine tune his narrative and as a consequence he has left us an even handed and highly entertaining account filled with anecdotes related to him by other participants on both sides of the conflict as they revisited the battlefield in the years after those bloody days of June 1815 A Voice from Waterloo the words of a soldier and a storyteller was once the most popular book on its subject It is an invaluable addition to any library of the Napoleonic Wars and also provides as a consequence of its inspiration a perfect companion for the modern Waterloo visitor as perhaps its most authentic expert tells his story once again across time

Walking Waterloo Charles J Esdaile,2019-02-28 Charles Esdaile s new guide to the Battle of Waterloo presents the experience of the soldiers who took part in the battle in the most graphic and direct way possible through their own words In a series of walks he describes in vivid detail what happened in each location on 18 June 1815 and he quotes at length from eyewitness accounts of the men who were there Each phase of the action during that momentous day is covered from the initial French attacks and the intense fighting at Hougomont and La Haye Sainte to the charges of the French cavalry against the British squares and the final doomed attack of Napoleon s Imperial Guard This innovative guide to this historic site is fully illustrated with a selection of archive images from the War Heritage Institute in Brussels modern color photographs of the battlefield as it appears today and specially commissioned maps which allow the visitor to follow the course of the battle on the ground
