Peasant Cooperation and Capitalist Expansion in Central Peru Norman Long, Bryan R. Roberts, 2014-11-06 This book brings together the research into regional development and social change carried out in highland Peru by a team of British and Latin American social anthropologists and sociologists The area studied the Mantaro Valley of central Peru is one of the most densely populated and economically differentiated of highland zones it is also notable for its community based forms of cooperation and its high level of peasant political activity The book presents a series of case studies that examine cooperative forms of organization in relation to developments in the regional economy and to changes in national policy The analysis attempts to avoid interpreting local processes merely as responses to externally initiated change It stresses instead the need to consider the interplay of local and national forces because local groups and processes themselves affect the pattern of regional and national development
