Farwell,2012-11-27 Now more than ever in the arenas of national security diplomacy and military operations effective communication strategy is of paramount importance A 24 7 television radio and Internet news cycle paired with an explosion in social media demands it According to James P Farwell an expert in communication strategy and cyber war who has advised the U S SPECIAL OPERATIONS COMMAND and the Department of Defense and worked nationally and internationally as a media and political consultant this book examines how colorful figures in history from Julius Caesar to Winston Churchill Napoleon to Hugo Chavez Martin Luther to Barack Obama and Ronald Reagan have forged communication strategies to influence audiences Mark Twain said that history doesn't repeat itself but rhymes. In showing how major leaders have moved audiences, Farwell bears out Twain's thesis: Obama and Luther each wanted to reach a mass audience. Obama used social media and the Internet; Luther used the printing press. But the strategic mindset was similar. Hugo Chavez identifies with Simon Bolívar, but his attitude towards the media more closely echoes Napoleon. Caesar used coins to build his image in ways that echo the modern use of campaign buttons. His triumphs, enormous parades to celebrate military victories, celebrated his achievements and aimed to impress the populace with his power and greatness. Adolph Hitler employed a similar tactic with his torchlight parades. The book shows how the US government's approach to strategic communication has been misguided. It offers a colorful, incisive critical evaluation of the concepts, doctrines, and activities that the US Department of Defense and Department of State employ for psychological operations, military information support operations, propaganda, and public diplomacy. Persuasion and Power is a book about the art of communication strategy: how it is used, where, and why. Farwell's adroit use of vivid examples produces a well-researched, entertaining story that illustrates how its principles have made a critical difference throughout history in the outcomes of crises, conflicts, politics, and diplomacy across different cultures and societies.

Public Relations and Strategic Communication in 2050 Alexander V. Laskin, Karen Freberg, 2024-11-25. Taking stock of the technological, political, economic, and social trends that exist today, this book extends the discussion to analyze and predict how these trends will affect the public relations and strategic communication industry of the future. This book is divided into two sections: the first addressing such key topics as artificial intelligence, AI, big data, political polarization, and misinformation; the second looking at key facets of the profession such as media relations, crisis communication, and measurement and evaluation. Leading researchers in the discipline share their analysis of these topics while also providing theoretically based and practically relevant insights on how the industry must evolve to keep up with and perhaps anticipate changes in culture, society, and technology. This book will be of interest to scholars, industry professionals, and advanced undergraduate and graduate students in public relations and strategic communication.

Communication Management František Pollák, Jakub Soviar, Roman Vavrek, 2022-01-07. Communication Management is an edited volume of chapters written by scholars researching various areas of marketing and management sciences. It presents several issues of marketing management within the limits of marketing communication. Starting from the issue of communication channels and basic sensory apparatus for processing information and stimuli, the book continues with a description of the issue of social media in the time of accelerated digitization. The last chapter introduces the reader to the issue of marketing communication in a sharply non-standard environment. The topic itself creates the opportunity to seek qualitative knowledge for future in-depth research into the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on both national and transnational economies.
