study of a wide range of Persian and European archival and primary sources analyzes how the Muharram rites changed from being an originally devotional practice to an ambiguous ritualization that in combination with other public arenas such as the bazaar coffeehouses or travel lodges created distinct spaces of communication whereby the widening gap between state and society gave way to the formation of the early Iranian public sphere Ultimately the Muharram public spaces allowed for a shift in individual and collective identities opening the way to multifaceted living fields of interaction as well as being sites of contestation where innovative expressions of politics were made In particular the construction of the new Isfahan in 1590 is linked with the widespread proliferation of the Muharram mortuary rites by discussing rituals performed in major urban spaces
