What We Are: The Evolutionary Roots of Our Future Lonnie Aarssen, 2022-07-05 Other animals are driven to spend essentially their whole lives just trying to get fed stay alive and get laid That's about it The same was true for our proto-human ancestors And modern humans of course also require a Survival Drive and a Sex Drive in order to leave descendants But today we spend most of our lives mainly just trying to convince ourselves that our existence is not absurd In What We Are Queen's University biologist Lonnie Aarssen traces how our biocultural evolution has shaped Homo sapiens into the only creature that refuses to be what it is the only creature preoccupied with a deeply ingrained and absurd sentiment I have a distinct mental life an inner self that exists separately and apart from material life and so unlike the latter need not come to an end This delusion conceivably gave our distant ancestors some wishful thinking for finding some measure of relief from the terrifying uniquely human knowledge of the eventual loss of corporeal survival But this came with an impulsive nagging doubt an obsessive underlying uncertainty self-impermanence anxiety Biocultural evolution however was not finished It also gave us two additional uniquely human primal drives both serving to help quell the burden of this anxiety Legacy Drive generates delusional cultural domains for extension of self and Leisure Drive generates pleasurable cultural domains for distraction escape from self Legacy Drive and Leisure Drive Aarssen argues represent two of the most profound consequences of human cognitive and cultural evolution What We Are advances propositions regarding how a visceral susceptibility to self impermanence anxiety has paradoxically played a pivotal role in rewarding the reproductive success of our ancestors and has thus been a driving force in shaping fundamental motivations and cultural norms of modern humans More than any other milestone in the evolution of human minds self impermanence anxiety and its mitigating Drives for Legacy and Leisure account for not just the advance of civilization over the past many thousands of years but also now its impending collapse Effective management of this crisis Aarssen insists will require a deeper and more broadly public understanding of its Darwinian evolutionary roots as laid out in What We Are Social Entrepreneurship Kucher, J. The Quest for Professionalism Georges Romme, 2016 Early pioneers in management thinking such as Henri Fayol and Peter Drucker conceived of management as a science based professional activity that serves the greater good Today however many organizations are managed by people demonstrating anything but professionalism resulting in mismanagement of risks as well as a one dimensional focus on short term results The key thesis in this book is that The Quest for Professionalism must be revitalized because the societal costs and damage caused by managerial amateurism are huge The book is about how to address this grand challenge for example by exploring whether and how a shared professional purpose and a professional body of knowledge can be developed While most work in this area has previously focused on management education The Quest for Professionalism adopts an inside out approach implying management scholarship is the driving force behind any intrinsic transformation of the profession at large Without management scholars playing an active role in advancing science based professionalism in the mould of engineering and medicine any attempt to professionalize management practice is doomed to fail Moreover Georges Romme demonstrates the professionalization quest has to move away from the idea of management being confined to a few people at the top toward management as a technology for distributing power and leadership throughout the organization
