Metabolic Ecology Richard M. Sibly, James H. Brown, Astrid Kodric-Brown, 2012-04-30 One of the first textbooks in this emerging important field of ecology Most of ecology is about metabolism the ways that organisms use energy and materials The energy requirements of individuals their metabolic rates vary predictably with their body size and temperature Ecological interactions are exchanges of energy and materials between organisms and their environments So metabolic rate affects ecological processes at all levels individuals populations communities and ecosystems Each chapter focuses on a different process level of organization or kind of organism It lays a conceptual foundation and presents empirical examples Together the chapters provide an integrated framework that holds the promise for a unified theory of ecology The book is intended to be accessible to upper level undergraduate and graduate students but also of interest to senior scientists Its easy to read chapters and clear illustrations can be used in lecture and seminar courses Together they make for an authoritative treatment that will inspire future generations to study metabolic ecology

Architectural Theories of the Environment Ariane Lourie Harrison, 2013-03-05 As architects and designers we struggle to reconcile ever increasing environmental humanitarian and technological demands placed on our projects Our new geological era the Anthropocene marks humans as the largest environmental force on the planet and suggests that conventional anthropocentric approaches to design must accommodate a more complex understanding of the interrelationship between architecture and environment Here for the first time editor Ariane Lourie Harrison collects the essays of architects theorists and sustainable designers that together provide a framework for a posthuman understanding of the design environment An introductory essay defines the key terms concepts and precedents for a posthuman approach to architecture and nine fully illustrated case studies of buildings from around the globe demonstrate how issues raised in posthuman theory provide rich terrain for contemporary architecture making theory concrete By assembling a range of voices across different fields from urban geography to critical theory to design practitioners this anthology offers a resource for design professionals educators and students seeking to grapple the ecological mandate of our current period Case studies include work by Arakawa and Gins Arons en Gelauff Casagrande The Living Minifie van Schaik R Sie n SCAPE Studio Gang and xDesign Essayists include Gilles Clément Matthew Gandy
