Hammill,Nettie R. Bartel,1990 Geomorphology and Society Michael E. Meadows, Jiun-Chuan Lin,2016-06-17 This book deals with the relationship between geomorphology and society This topic has had rather scant treatment in the literature except to some extent under the label applied geomorphology In this text the authors aim to bring together conceptual issues and case studies of how geomorphology influences society and indeed how society is in turn influenced by geomorphology In an age in which the influence of human activities on global environments has become so paramount that it is increasingly common to refer to it geologically as the anthropocene the book aims to reflect on the geomorphological significance of widespread and diverse forms of human impact in a range of environmental settings Sedimentology of Paralic Reservoirs G.J. Hampson,A.D. Reynolds,B. Kostic,M.R. Wells,2017-07-20 Paralic reservoirs reflect a range of depositional environments including deltas shoreline shelf systems and estuaries They provide the backbone of production in many mature basins and contribute significantly to global conventional hydrocarbon production However the range of environments together with relative sea level and sediment supply changes result in significant variability in their stratigraphic architecture and sedimentological heterogeneity which translates into complex patterns of reservoir distribution and production that are challenging to predict optimize and manage This volume presents new research and developments in established approaches to the exploration and production of paralic reservoirs The 13 papers in the volume are grouped into three thematic sections which address the sedimentological characterization of paralic reservoirs using subsurface data lithological heterogeneity in paralic depositional systems arising from the influence of tidal currents and paralic reservoir analogue studies of modern sediments and ancient outcrops The volume demonstrates that heterogeneity in paralic reservoirs is increasingly well understood at all scales but highlights gaps in our knowledge and areas of current research Treatise on Geomorphology ,2013-02-27 The changing focus and approach of geomorphic research suggests that the time is opportune for a summary of the state of discipline The number of peer reviewed papers published in geomorphic journals has grown steadily for more than two decades and more importantly the diversity of authors with respect to geographic location and disciplinary background geography geology ecology civil engineering computer science geographic information science and others has expanded dramatically As more good minds are drawn to geomorphology and the breadth of the peer reviewed literature grows an effective summary of contemporary geomorphic knowledge becomes increasingly difficult The fourteen volumes of this Treatise on Geomorphology will provide an important reference for users from undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic Information on the historical development of diverse topics within geomorphology provides context for ongoing research discussion of research strategies equipment and field methods laboratory experiments and numerical simulations reflect the multiple approaches to understanding Earth s surfaces and summaries of outstanding research questions highlight future challenges and suggest productive new avenues for research Our future ability to adapt to geomorphic changes in the critical zone very much hinges upon how well landform scientists comprehend the dynamics of Earth s diverse surfaces This Treatise on Geomorphology provides a useful synthesis of the state of the discipline as well as highlighting productive research directions that Educators and students researchers will find useful Geomorphology has advanced greatly in the last 10 years to become a very interdisciplinary field Undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic will find the answers they need in this broad reference work which has been designed and written to accommodate their diverse backgrounds and levels of understanding Editor in Chief Prof J F Shroder of the University of Nebraska at Omaha is past president of the QG G section of the Geological Society of America and present Trustee of the GSA Foundation while being well respected in the geomorphology research community and having won numerous awards in the field A host of noted international geomorphologists have contributed state of the art chapters to the work Readers can be guaranteed that every chapter in this extensive work has been critically reviewed for consistency and accuracy by the World expert Volume Editors and by the Editor in Chief himself No other reference work exists in the area of Geomorphology that offers the breadth and depth of information contained in this 14 volume masterpiece From the foundations and history of geomorphology through to geomorphological innovations and computer modelling and the past and future states of landform science no stone has been left unturned

Therapy Maxine Ficksman, Jane Utley Adelizzi, 2013-05-13 The Clinical Practice of Educational Therapy is the first book to provide a comprehensive review of the interdisciplinary profession and practice of educational therapy as it exists today. It describes the scope and practice of educational therapy from its European roots to its growing presence in the United States and provides case studies to illustrate the work of educational therapists. Key Features: Interdisciplinary Perspective: Other books focus on either educational or therapeutic interventions but rarely discuss the blend and synergy of disciplines that are the hallmark of the profession. Illustrative Cases: The text draws heavily on case studies as a means of understanding the practice of educational therapy, especially the relationship between therapist and client. Expertise: Chapter authors are either experienced educational therapists or allied professionals who have made scholarly contributions to the profession, such as Dorothy Ungerleider, Patricia Waters, Roslyn Arnold, and George McCloskey. In addition to educational therapy students and practitioners, this book is appropriate for those working in related fields including special education, school psychology, school counseling, and social work in educational settings.
