Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders between two groups of nurses working in different units of a tertiary care hospital. A cross-sectional study was conducted among 100 nurses from two units. Data were collected by means of a questionnaire containing information about sociodemographic variables, work-related factors, and musculoskeletal symptoms. Results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among nurses working in the intensive care unit than among those working in the medical-surgical unit. This finding suggests that nursing interventions aimed at preventing musculoskeletal disorders should be directed toward the intensive care unit.
