 Transitions examines how societies navigate leadership change and political restructuring drawing from historical case studies to understand contemporary political climates The book highlights that successful transitions depend not just on new leadership but on the adaptability of existing institutions It explores key dynamics such as succession crises examining how competing factions vie for control and institutional reforms that can inadvertently destabilize power structures The book progresses from establishing a conceptual framework to analyzing historical examples thematically incorporating primary sources and quantitative data to support its assessments It further explores lessons learned from these cases to contemporary political scenarios offering insights for policymakers and citizens The study also acknowledges external influences like foreign intervention and the impact of geopolitical dynamics This interdisciplinary analysis aimed at students policymakers and anyone interested in political change fills a gap by offering a comparative perspective on leadership shifts By understanding these patterns readers can gain a deeper understanding of what contributes to successful or unsuccessful power transitions including emerging challenges like technological disruption and transnational movements      The Morphosyntax of Transitions Víctor Acedo-Matellán, 2016 This book examines the cross linguistic expression of changes of location or state taking as a starting point Talmy's typological generalization that classifies languages as either satellite framed or verb framed In verb framed languages such as those of the Romance family the information about the predicate is encoded by the verb Satellite framed languages on the other hand can be further subdivided into weak satellite framed languages in which the information is expressed by a prefix on the verb and strong satellite framed languages in which it is expressed by a preposition In this volume Víctor Acedo Matellán explores the similarities between Latin and Slavic in their expression of events of transition neither allows the expression of complex adjectival resultative constructions and both express the result state or location of a complex transition through prefixes They are therefore analysed as weak satellite framed languages along with Ancient Greek and some varieties of Mandarin Chinese and stand in contrast to strong satellite framed languages such as English the Germanic languages in general and Finno-Ugric This variation is explained in terms of the morphological properties of the head expressing transition Path which is argued to be prefixal in weak but not in strong satellite framed languages On the other hand in verb framed languages like Romance Path is strictly adjacent to the eventive head v The analysis is couched in a neo constructionist approach to argument structure which accounts for the verbal elasticity shown by Latin and a Distributed Morphology approach to the syntax morphology interface      Adaptation in a

Modeling Phase Transitions in the Brain D. Alistair Steyn-Ross, Moira Steyn-Ross, 2010-03-14 Foreword by Walter J Freeman The induction of unconsciousness using anesthetic agents demonstrates that the cerebral cortex can operate in two very different behavioral modes alert and responsive vs unaware and quiescent But the states of wakefulness and sleep are not single neuron properties they emerge as bulk properties of cooperating populations of neurons with the switchover between states being similar to the physical change of phase observed when water freezes or ice melts Some brain state transitions such as sleep cycling anesthetic induction epileptic seizure are obvious and detected readily with a few EEG electrodes others such as the emergence of gamma rhythms during cognition or the ultra slow BOLD rhythms of relaxed free association are much more subtle The unifying theme of this book is the notion that all of these bulk changes in brain behavior can be treated as phase transitions between distinct brain states Modeling Phase Transitions in the Brain contains chapter contributions from leading researchers who apply state space methods network models and biophysically motivated continuum approaches to investigate a range of neuroscientifically relevant problems that include analysis of nonstationary EEG time series network topologies that limit epileptic spreading saddle node bifurcations for anesthesia sleep cycling and the wake sleep switch prediction of dynamical and noise induced spatiotemporal instabilities underlying BOLD alpha and gamma band Hopf oscillations gap junction moderated Turing structures and Hopf Turing interactions leading to cortical waves

The Middle East Economies in Times of Transition Ahmed Galal, Ishac Diwan, 2016-04-08 Diwan and Galal looks at the structure and prospects of the Middle East economies after the 2011 Uprisings focusing on issues of economic growth inequality the impact of oil and the unfolding political transitions On the growth question the book looks into the extent of structural transformation of the economy the political economy reasons for the lack of structural change and the external conditions in the EU and in the GCC that underpin the lack of structural change On inequality the book offers new measures of equality of opportunity in human development and in the job market and it also reviews the complex political economy of subsidy removal Regarding natural resources the volume provides three innovations connecting the notion of oil curse to the global phenomena of asset bubbles evidence that resource curse effects do not rise monotonically with the size of the resource rent but rather according to an inverted U shape and an extension of the concept of rent to the other non oil rents that are also predominant in the region Finally the volume places the political transition in the region in a global perspective using various methods theoretical comparative and empirical and it explores the relationship between democracy in its variety of forms and economic development Perspectives on Transitions in Refugee Education Seyda Subasi Singh,Olja Jovanović

Africa's Energy Transition George Anachebe Nwangwu,2025-08-20 This book examines the critical challenges and opportunities surrounding climate change and the energy transition in Africa While many Africans prioritize pressing concerns such as food scarcity economic development and unemployment the book argues that the continent remains particularly vulnerable to climate related impacts Erratic weather patterns and extreme events exacerbate existing issues including declining agricultural productivity infrastructure damage and political instability Despite these challenges the transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy presents significant economic opportunities for Africa The book emphasizes that embracing this shift can help African countries transform their economies and strengthen resilience against climate change It contends that the current international framework where Africa has largely anchored its demands around climate justice has yielded little tangible benefit for Africans Instead the book advocates for a shift in perspective rather than focusing solely on historical emissions from the Global North African nations should recognize the potential advantages of actively participating in the global energy economy By seizing the opportunities inherent in this transition African countries can reshape their economies and capitalize on emerging energy markets
