INTERVIEWER:

Transcription Centre uses this template for our transcripts, unless otherwise specified. Having read transcripts in a variety of formats, as well as used several ourselves, we think this is the easiest to read and easiest to analyse.

RESPONDENT:

Indeed. However, we're also happy to accommodate any special requests, including time stamps and custom templates.

Our transcribers are highly skilled and experienced, but sometimes there's a word here and there that we're not able to understand due to mumbling or background noise. We'll indicate any inaudible speech with ["* 0:01:00]. If we think we understand the word, but aren't quite sure, we'll mark it [like this 0:01:05]. For example, if you thought you heard "I like puppies", but weren't certain the speaker said 'puppies', you would type, "I like [puppies 0:01:30]".

Transcribers use British spelling and ensure proper punctuation. If unsure about the spelling of a word (particularly place and organisation names), a quick Google search will often help. Finally, paragraphs are kept relatively short – generally no longer than seven or eight lines long, so that they're easy to read and to analyse. Transcription is in intelligent verbatim – meaning no 'uhs' 'ums', and excessive repetition is edited out.

Any questions, please ask!
