Cognitive and sociocultural aspects of writing are explored in depth as are assessment principles and methods. Issues in teaching students with disabilities, multilingual students, and culturally diverse students are addressed. The volume discusses innovative research methods and educational technologies and identifies key directions for future investigation. New to This Edition: Chapters on executive functions in writing; disciplinary writing in math, science, and social studies; the role of vocabulary in writing; and formative assessment. Chapters on source-based writing; source evaluation; and writing development and instruction for African American students. Chapters on sociocultural aspects of writing from critical literacies to agency and identity; social justice issues; and more, plus an emphasis on integrating cognitive and sociocultural perspectives throughout.

Design Principles for Teaching Effective Writing Raquel Fidalgo Redondo, Karen Harris, Martine Braaksma, 2017-11-20. This volume presents effective instructional programs focused on two perspectives on writing: the teaching and learning of writing as a skill and the use of writing as a learning activity in various school subjects or skills acquisition. It is focused on analysing micro design features of the programs such as learning activities supporting materials, specific strategies, instructional techniques, but also macro design rules of intervention programs such as instructional sequence, instructional stages based on research evidence provided for previous studies. This volume goes beyond a practical volume because it provides additional reflection and discussion about theoretical background and empirically based evidence which support the specific intervention programs described. Several chapters in this book include links to an Open Access e-book where teacher and student materials for the authors' instructional approaches can be found. See ToC.
