Translation History And Culture By Bassnett Susan Lefevere Andre:

Translation, History, and Culture Susan Bassnett,1990 This varied collection of essays represents the differing strands of work currently being undertaken in the exciting new field of Translation Studies and reflects a shift of emphasis away from a more descriptive form of translation towards the idea that translation occupies a seminal position in the development of culture Susan Bassnett is Director of the Centre for British Comparative Cultural Studies at the University of Warwick Andre Lefevere is Professor of Germanic Philology at the University of Texas at Austin

Translation, History, & Culture Susan Bassnett,1998-05-06 A collection of essays which represent the different strands of work being undertaken in the field of translation studies The book reflects the shift in emphasis away from a more descriptive form of translation to the view that translation occupies a central position in the development of culture

Constructing Cultures Susan Bassnett,André Lefevere,1998 This collection brings together two leading figures in the discipline of translation studies The essays cover a range of fields and combine theory with practical case studies involving the translation of literary texts

Encyclopedia of Literary Translation Into English: A-L O. Classe,2000

Beyond Descriptive Translation Studies Anthony Pym,Miriam Shlesinger,Daniel Simeoni,2008 To go beyond the work of a leading intellectual is rarely an unambiguous tribute However when Gideon Toury founded Descriptive Translation Studies as a research based discipline he laid down precisely that intellectual challenge not just to describe translation but to explain it through reference to wider relations That call offers at once a common base an open and multidirectional ambition and many good reasons for unambiguous tribute The authors brought together in this volume include key players in Translation Studies who have responded to Toury s challenge in one way or another Their diverse contributions address issues such as the sociology of translators contemporary changes in intercultural relations the fundamental problem of defining translations the nature of explanation and case studies including pseudotranslation in Renaissance Italy Sherlock Holmes in Turkey and the coffee and sugar economy in Brazil All acknowledge Translation Studies as a research based space for conceptual coherence and creativity all seek to explain as well as describe In this sense we believe that Toury s call has been answered beyond expectations

Translation and the Reconfiguration of Power Relations Beatrice Fischer,Matilde Nisbeth Jensen,2012 This volume presents translation as a powerful activity by revisiting the roles of translators and interpreters and the contexts of translation and interpreting in societies affected by globalization and migration The articles cover topics such as the impact languages have on translation the institutional constraints in the context of translation and the challenges within the framework of multimodal translation In recent years questions of power in translation have emerged In such a context the book presents new research paths that can be related to some of the most discussed issues of recent years in Translation Studies The contributors are 14 PhD students who investigate the power relations in the context of censorship ideology localization multimodal translation English as a lingua franca in translation mandatory genres and translation by non

Translation Translation, 2021-07-26 Translation contributes to current debate on the question of translation dealt with in an interdisciplinary perspective with implications not only of a theoretical order but also of the didactic and the practical orders In the context of globalization the question of translation is fundamental for education and responds to new community needs with reference to Europe and more extensively to the international world In its most obvious sense translation concerns verbal texts and their relations among different languages However to remain within the sphere of verbal signs languages consist of a plurality of different languages that also relate to each other through translation processes Moreover translation occurs between verbal languages and nonverbal languages and among nonverbal languages without necessarily involving verbal languages Thus far the allusion is to translation processes within the sphere of anthroposemiosis But translation occurs among signs and the signs implicated are those of the semiotic sphere in its totality which are not exclusively signs of the linguistic verbal order Beyond anthroposemiosis translation is a fact of life and invests the entire biosphere or biosemiosphere as clearly evidenced by research in biosemiotics for where there is life there are signs and where there are signs or semiotic processes there is translation indeed semiotic processes are translation processes According to this approach reflection on translation obviously cannot be restricted to the domain of linguistics but must necessarily involve semiotics the general science or theory of signs In this theoretical framework essays have been included not only from major translation experts but also from researchers working in different areas in addition to semiotics and linguistics also philosophy literary criticism cultural studies gender studies biology and the medical sciences All scholars work on problems of translation in the light of their own special competencies and interests Handbook of Translation

Studies Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2011-12-21 As a meaningful manifestation of how institutionalized the discipline has become the new Handbook of Translation Studies is most welcome It joins the other signs of maturation such as Summer Schools the development of academic curricula historical surveys journals book series textbooks terminologies bibliographies and encyclopedias The HTS aims at disseminating knowledge about translation and interpreting and providing easy access to a large range of topics traditions and methods to a relatively broad audience not only students who often adamantly prefer such user friendliness researchers and lecturers in Translation Studies Translation but also scholars and experts from other disciplines among which linguistics sociology history psychology In addition the HTS addresses any of those with a professional or personal interest in the problems of translation interpreting localization editing etc such as communication specialists journalists literary critics editors public servants business managers intercultural organization specialists media specialists marketing professionals Moreover The HTS offers added value First of all it is the first Handbook with this scope in Translation Studies that has both a print edition and an online version The advantages of an online version are obvious it is more flexible and accessible and in addition the entries can be regularly revised and updated The Handbook is variously searchable by article by author by subject A second benefit is the interconnection with the selection and organization principles of the online Translation Studies Bibliography TSB The taxonomy of the TSB has been partly applied to the selection of entries for the HTS Moreover many items in the reference lists are hyperlinked to the TSB where the user can find an abstract of a publication All articles between 500 and 6000 words are written by specialists in the different subfields and are peer reviewed Last but not least the usability accessibility and flexibility of the HTS depend on the commitment of people who agree that Translation Studies does matter All users are therefore invited to share their feedback Any questions remarks and suggestions for improvement can be sent to the editorial team at hts@lessius.eu

Translation as Metaphor Rainer Guldin, 2015-10-05 In today's ever changing climate of disintegration and recombination translation has become one of the essential metaphors if not the metaphor of our globalized world Translation and Metaphor is an attempt to draw a comprehensive map of these new overlapping theoretical territories and the many cross disciplinary movements they imply

In five chapters this book examines The main metaphor theories developed in the West The way the notion of metaphor relates to the concept of translation Different theoretical perspectives on metaphors of translation in translation studies The main metaphors developed to describe translation in the West and in the East Spatial metaphors within translation studies cultural studies and postcolonial theory The use of the metaphor of translation across psychoanalysis anthropology and ethnography postcolonial theory history and literature sociology media and communication theory and medicine and genetics Comprehensive analysis of key metaphor theories revealing examples from a wide range of sources and a look towards future directions make this is a must have book for students researchers and translators working in the areas of translation and translation theory

Memes of Translation Andrew Chesterman, 1997-06-05 Memes of Translation is a search for coherence in translation theory based on the notion of Memes ideas that spread develop and replicate like genes The author explores a wide range of ideas on translation mapping the meme pool of translation theory with chapters on translation history norms strategies assessment ethics and translator training The aim of the book is to search for a perspective from which the immense variety of ideas about translation can be related The unifying thread is the philosophy of Karl Popper The book proposes the beginnings of a Popperian theory of translation based on the fundamental concepts of norms strategies and values A key idea is that a translation itself is a theory or hypothesis concerning the source text This hypothesis is then subjected to testing refinement and perhaps even rejection just like any other hypothesis

Victorian Women and the Economies of Travel, Translation and Culture, 1830-1870 Judith Johnston, 2016-02-24 Both travel and translation involve a type of journey one with literal and metaphorical dimensions Judith Johnston brings together these two richly resonant modes of getting from here to there as she explores their impact on culture with respect to the work of Victorian women Using the metaphor of the published journey whether it involves actual travel or translation Johnston focusses particularly on the relationships of various British women with continental Europe At the same time she sheds light on the possibility of appropriation and British imperial enhancement that such contact produces Johnston s book is in part devoted to case studies of women such as Sarah Austin Mary Busk Anna Jameson Charlotte Guest Jane Sinnett and Mary Howitt who are representative of women travellers translators and journalists during a period when women became increasingly robust participants in the publishing industry Whether they wrote about their own travels or translated the foreign language texts of other writers Johnston shows women were establishing themselves as actors in the broad business of culture In widening our understanding of the ways in which gender and modernity functioned in the early decades of the Victorian age Johnston s book makes a strong case for a greater appreciation of the contributions nineteenth century women made to what is termed the knowledge empire

Rimbaud's Rainbow Peter R. Bush, Kirsten Malmkjær, 1998 This selection of papers from the ITI s landmark First International Colloquium on Literary Translation includes provocative perspectives on the teaching research and status of literary education in universities By way of introduction Peter Bush looks at strategies for raising the profile of the theory and practice of literary translation its professionalisation and role in the development of national and international cultures Nicholas Round and Edwin Gentzler explore undergraduate teaching of translation in the UK and the US while Douglas Robinson gives a Woody Allenish frame to an experience of pedagogy Susan Bassnett sets out an overview of the development of research in Translation Studies that is complemented by case studies of translations of Shakespeare's Letter Puns by Dirk Delabastita and of Molly Bloom's Soliloquy by Maria Angeles Code Parrilla Kirsten Malmkjaer and Masako Taira respectively review translating Hans Christian Andersen and the Japanese particle ne as examples of the relationship between linguistics and literary translation Ian Craig examines the impact of censorship on the translation of children's fiction in Francoist Spain Developing the international perspective Else Vieira considers paradigms for translation in Latin America from concretist poetics to post modernism

Introduction to Medio-Translatology Xie Tianzhen, 2023-07-20

This book offers a comprehensive introduction to medio translatology including its historical and literary setting its core concept and its practice and theory Medio translatology inspired by scholarship in comparative literature and the cultural turn in Western translation studies has tackled many issues which previously went unnoticed or were ignored in traditional translation studies in China it falls within the scope of literary studies and cultural studies extending beyond the confines of language and treating literary translations and translating as historical facts Emerging from comparative literature medio translatology looks at literary translation from a new and broader perspective and explains with illustrative and compelling examples that literary translation is an act of creative treason The originality of this approach is also evident in its distinguishing between the history of translated literature and the history of literary translation as well as in its addressing the nature and status of translated literature The Chinese edition of this book being the first of its kind and well received in China has been hailed as a milestone in exploring translation studies in the context of comparative literature in Chinese academia and it introduces to students and researchers alike a wide range of new thoughts and ideas

Sustaining

Fictions Lesleigh Cushing Stahlberg, 2009-05-01 Even before the biblical canon became fixed writers have revisited and reworked its stories The author of Joshua takes the haphazard settlement of Israel recorded in the Book of Judges and retells it as an orderly military conquest The writer of Chronicles expurgates the David cycle in Samuel I and II offering an upright and virtuous king devoid of baser instincts This literary phenomenon is not contained to inner biblical exegesis Once the telling becomes known the retellings begin through the New Testament rabbinic midrash medieval mystery plays medieval and Renaissance poetry nineteenth century novels and contemporary literature writers of the Western world have continued to occupy themselves with the biblical canon However there exists no adequate vocabulary academic or popular religious or secular literary or theological to describe the recurring appearances of canonical figures and motifs in later literature Literary critics bible scholars and book reviewers alike seek recourse in words like adaptation allusion echo imitation and influence to describe what the author for lack of better terms has come to call retellings or recastings Although none of these designations rings false none approaches precision They do not tell us what the author of a novel or poem has done with a biblical figure do not signal how this newly recast figure is different from other recastings of it and do not offer any indication of why these transformations have occurred Sustaining Fictions sets out to redress this problem considering the viability of the vocabularies of literary midrashic and translation theory for speaking about retelling

The Korean Labour Market after the 1997 Economic Crisis Joonmo Cho, Richard B. Freeman, Jaeho Keum, Sunwoong Kim, 2013-06-19 For economists policy makers and historians who want to learn how the Korean labor market dealt with the 1997 financial crisis and how this informed future policies this volume provides a succinct summary of what Korean experts know and how they view the problems the country must overcome to continue on its road to the top rungs of economic success The book is filled with institutional detail and statistics to enlighten scholars and with critiques of policy and potential solutions from labor specialists It provides a guide to the data on Korean workers and firms that can inform future research work

Less Translated Languages Albert Branchadell, Lovell Margaret West, 2005 This is the first collection of articles devoted entirely to less translated languages a term that brings together well known widely used languages such as Arabic or Chinese and long neglected minority languages with power as the key word at play It starts with some views on English the dominant language in Translation as elsewhere considers the role of translation for minority languages both a source of inequality and a means to overcome it takes a look at translation from less translated major languages and cultures and ends up with a closer look at translation into Catalan a paradigmatic case of less translated language in a final section that includes a vindication of six prominent Catalan translators Combining sound theoretical insight and accurate analysis of relevant case studies the contributors to this collection make a convincing case for a more thorough examination of less translated languages within the field of Translation Studies
