Trapped Down Under:

Why We Lost Daniel P. Bolger, 2014-11-11 A commander's compelling behind the scenes view of the United States at war after 9/11 from high level strategy to combat on the ground The Wall Street Journal Over his thirty five year career Daniel P. Bolger rose through the ranks of the army infantry to become a three star general commanding in both Afghanistan and Iraq Perhaps more than anyone else he was witness to the full extent of these wars from September 11th to withdrawal from the region Not only did Bolger participate in top level planning and strategy meetings he also regularly carried a rifle alongside soldiers in combat actions Writing with hard won experience and unflinching honesty Bolger argues that while we lost in Iraq and Afghanistan we did not have to Intelligence was garbled Key decision makers were blinded by spreadsheets or theories And we never really understood our enemy Why We Lost is a timely forceful and compulsively readable account from a fresh and authoritative perspective filled with heartfelt stories of soldiers and Marines in firefights and close combat It weighs in mightily to the ongoing debate over how the United States should wage war The Washington Post

Unsinkable Jill Noblit MacGregor, 2017-10-20 Nearly three quarters of a century following the reprehensible cover up of the worst US naval disaster at sea emerges an unparalleled account of survival from the sinking of the USS Indianapolis CA 35 But this time it's not the story of the ship that went under or of the innocent captain blackballed by fellow brass instead it's the inspiring true story of a young sailor's unsinkable faith in God to do the impossible despite the inevitable Introducing Indy navigator Robert Bob P. Gause QM1 the survivor who discovered the gruesome half eaten sailor described by Captain Quint in the original movie Jaws In this riveting biography Gause chronicles the details of his days adrift as a survivor of one of the most chilling sagas born out of the greatest generation Torpedoed in the dead of night by a Japanese submarine the crew of the Indy is forced to abandon ship Over the next three days their situation rapidly deteriorates as mayhem sets in By day four death and delirium have consumed most of the crew Dependent upon spent life jackets that are threatening to take them under Bob and the dwindling group of survivors realize their hours are numbered If help doesn't find them soon there won't be anyone left to tell of their unimaginable plight in the deep More than an incomprehensible tale of hope Bob's memoirs from the Indy amass a story so unfathomably true you'll swear it's fiction Unsinkable it's what you become when ending up on the bottom of the ocean is not an option A portion of all book sales will be donated to organizations dedicated to helping our servicemen and women active and veteran in the battle against PTSD Secret of the Satilfa Ted Certainly a Mozart concerto is much more than the first and the last notes or even the total number of notes contained in the work. It is the manner in which Mozart arranged those notes, the themes they demonstrate and the sentiments they elicit that give the composition its beauty and importance. In the same sense the dash on the gravestone really represents the whole fabric of the life of the deceased and consists of a complex weft and warp of events, emotions and actions, all the threads that produced day by day the cloth of that man's life. At least some of those threads are undoubtedly worthy of note in the existence of any man. The story that follows is the dash of Daniel Locke Todd M D

The 1925 Tri-State Tornado's Devastation in Franklin County, Hamilton County, and White County, Illinois Bob Johns, 2012-04-05

When the tornado roared across southern Missouri, southern Illinois and southwestern Indiana for many hours during the afternoon on March 18th in 1925, there was no way that people along the tornado path would know it was occurring before they could see it. This was because there was no radar system then and the National Weather Service was not able to let people know that a tornado was going to occur or that there was a tornado already occurring since they did not know much about tornadoes. So the only way a person then was able to know that a tornado was occurring and it was going to hit them was when they were able to see it close to where they were and realize that it was a tornado. This story shows in Franklin, Hamilton and White Counties in Illinois what some people saw and what they did and what happened to them when the tornado hit them. This story also has many detailed maps across the townships in Franklin, Hamilton and White Counties in Illinois that show where many people's homes, many schools and churches and other things were located when they were hit by the tornado and damaged or destroyed. Some of the maps also show where some people landed after they were blown well away from their home. There are also some pictures in this story that show what some homes, schools and other things looked like when they were damaged or damaged by the tornado. And a few of them show what they looked like before they were hit by the tornado. Some of the eyewitnesses of this tornado that I met with and went on driving surveys with are shown on pictures in this book.

Open-file Report, 1990 The Spotting Scope David Carle, 2012

I thought I was in the forever business. National and state parks are supposed to preserve special places for all time. A certain job security had always gone along with that idea if you were a park ranger. But I've learned to never say forever. Jack Morgan had been a park ranger at Saline Lake until the National Monument was shut down by a Congress determined to push back against environmentalism. Leading a search for a 17-year-old boy hiking alone in the Sierra Nevada mountains, Jack uncovers connections with a dead man on the shore of Saline Lake, bludgeoned with a birdwatcher's spotting scope. Tensions build in the local community as Jack's knowledge of the landscape reveals a murderous plot that may end his own life, fueled by the inflammatory rhetoric of People First radicals.

Zepharius: Volume 2 Mel Snyder, 2019-03-04

I'll give you a few weeks to try to fix that enslaved mentality of yours, but if you don't show any signs of change, they step closer to me and glare threateningly into my eyes. I feel my heart shaking and my fingers go cold. I will kill you myself; they threaten me to spare you from ending up left for dead elsewhere My entire body grows cold now I had gotten accustomed to L tsubav r s empty threats but this feels completely different Trakyuuserr a was right The aura of the community around me and the correlation between the d fak t ns here have given me a false reassurance They all get along and have peace because they are already established here in the underground They all belong here I don t The planet Gisaawek is hiding in a lie its citizens corrupted by a force unleashed years ago known as the Repression The planet s drive for power and war is increasing on an unrelenting level Planets that were once allies have turned against them Zepharius now a former soldier of Gisaawek lives as an outsider in her own world She is one of the d fak t ns people whose existence is forbidden by the government They refer to themselves as Restored people who have overcome the Repression and are seeking to restore Gisaawek Zepharius sets out to join their movement tasked with the prospect of leadership and providing aid to a counterattack With chaos enveloping the planet and the loss of their leader putting them at high alert the Restored are wary of anyone who enters their domain Zepharius seems trustworthy but holds information that could destroy her potential for joining them being the last person to see their beloved leader alive With trust becoming the dividing line between life and death Zepharius struggles to adapt to the new community around her When an unexpected infiltration puts them on unknown grounds will she be able to gain their trust and help her people survive
