

SECTION 2 – Servicing Schedule

Section 2

Schedule the work you need to carry out on your specialized Terrain by developing a servicing routine. The timetable below provides a good template since it shows the tasks you should perform on your bike and suggests when you should do them.

Your schedule depends on how much and where your bike is ridden. A heavily used, off-road bike requires attention at much shorter intervals, whereas a bike used for infrequent, short road journeys will need less regular attention.

However, work carried out as part of a service schedule does not replace any safety checks that are recommended to be carried out before every ride by the manufacturer, or regularly looking for danger signs. You should also check your bike and lubricate the transmission every time you clean it.

SECTION 3 - Transmission

Section 3

Installing a Cartridge Bottom Bracket

Put the bike on a work stand and remove the crankset on your specialized Terrain (see Section 3.2).

- Use a pair of calipers to measure the length of the old axle before you remove the bottom bracket, so that you can be sure the replacement has an axle of the same length. You need to do this because different cranksets are designed to work with different axle lengths.

Remove both the crankset (see Section 3.2), insert a bottom bracket remover into the non-drive side of the bracket and turn the remover anticlockwise with a spanner.

- Repeat on the other side, turning clockwise. Turn it anticlockwise if your bike has an Italian threaded bottom bracket (marked 36 x 1).

Measure the width of the bottom bracket shell with a ruler. The shell forms part of the bike's frame and will be either 68mm (2 1/4 in) or 73mm (2 7/8 in) wide. This width determines the width of the bracket and you need to buy.

Tighten the threads of each side of the new bottom bracket for a snug fit. The non-drive threads are sometimes referred to as the free cup and the drive-side threads are known as the fixed cup. Do not grease the drive side of a bottom bracket with Italian threads.
