THROTTLE LINKAGE ADJUSTMENTS

The Torqueflite instructions in this section apply to all cars manufactured by the Chrysler Corporation. Except that transmission is used in Chrysler, Oldsmobile, Buick and Pontiac, the instructions which follow are geared to others. They apply to all Chrysler cars, but some minor variations may be necessary to provide for a particular model.

1957 Four Barrel Carburetor

Correct adjustment of the accelerator throttle linkage is of extreme importance for proper transmission operation.

1. Check accelerator pedal angle. The pedal must be set at 124° to the horizontal.

Notes: Pedal angle is adjusted on the accelerator pedal in accelerator shaft rod at the ball joint on the accelerator pedal rod.

2. Check throttle linkage for binding. Free up if necessary.
3. Start engine. Run oil operating temperature is reached.

Notes: Remove air cleaner and check to see that the choke is in the fully opened position.

4. Connect an electrical tachometer, set engine idle speed to 475-500 RPM with the valve lever in Neutral.

5. Shut off engine. Loosen the throttle linkage adjusting nut located on the rod from the accelerator shaft assembly in the intermediate shaft assembly.

6. Move the rod forward against the idle stop of the transmission throttle cam.

7. With the rod preloaded and in line, tighten the throttle linkage adjusting nut to 8 ft. lbs. torque.

8. Start engine and increase engine idle speed with valve lever in Neutral (475-500 RPM).

1957 Two Barrel Carburetor

The throttle linkage adjustment on cars using a two barrel carburetor is performed as described for cars using a four barrel carburetor with the following exceptions:

1. Loosen the throttle linkage adjusting screw which is located on the accelerator shaft assembly in carburetor rod.

2. Move the rear portion of the accelerator to carburetor rod forward until it is stopped by the idle stop on the transmission throttle cam.

3. With the rods in alignment and the rear part of the rod preloaded, lock the throttle linkage adjusting screw.
