institutional arrangements and non state actor engagements mediate the evidence to policy process in the development of the SDGs The ultimate intention is to tease out lessons on global policy making and to understand the influence of different evidence inputs and institutional factors in shaping outcomes To understand the value afforded to scientific evidence within multilateral deliberation a conceptual framework is provided drawing upon literature from policy studies and political science including recent theories of evidence informed policy making and new institutionalism It posits that the success or failure of evidence informing global political processes rests upon the representation and access of scientific stakeholders levels of community organisation the framing and presentation of evidence and time including the duration over which evidence and key conceptual ideas are presented Cutting across the discussion is the fundamental question of whose evidence counts and how expertise is defined The framework is tested with specific reference to three themes that were prominent during the SDG negotiation process public health articulated in SDG 3 urban sustainability articulated in SDG 11 and data and information systems which were a cross cutting theme of the dialogue Within each scientific communities had specific demands and through an exploration of key literature including evidence inputs and UN documentation as well as through key informant interviews the translation of these scientific ideas into policy priorities is uncovered The intended audiences of this book include academic practitioners studying evidence to policy processes multilateral negotiation and or UN policy planning The book also intends to provide useful insights for policy makers including UN diplomats officials and staff working to improve the quality of evidence communication and uptake within multilateral institutions Finally it aims to support the whole global academic and scientific community including students of public policy and political science by providing insights on how to input into influence and even shape international evidence informed policy making

Life and Evolution

Lorenzo Baravalle, Luciana Zaterka, 2020-04-10 This book offers to the international reader a collection of original articles of some of the most skillful historians and philosophers of biology currently working in Latin American universities During the last decades increasing attention has been paid in Latin America to the history and philosophy of biology but since many local authors prefer to write in Spanish or in Portuguese their ideas have barely crossed the boundaries of the continent This volume aims to remedy this state of things providing a good sample of this production to the English speaking readers bringing together contributions from researchers working in Brazilian Argentinean Chilean Colombian and Mexican universities The stress on the regional provenance of the authors is not intended to suggest the existence of something like a Latin American history and philosophy of biology supposedly endowed with distinctive features On the contrary the editors firmly believe that advances in this field can be achieved only by stimulating the integration in the international debate Based on this assumption the book focuses on two topics life and evolution and presents a selection of contributions addressing issues such as the history of the concept of life the philosophical reflection on life manipulation and life extension the structure and development of evolutionary theory as well as human evolution Life and Evolution Latin American Essays on the History and Philosophy of Biology will provide the international reader with a rather complete picture of the ongoing research in the history and philosophy of biology in Latin America offering a snapshot of this dynamic community It will also contribute to contextualize and develop the debate concerning life and evolution and the relation between the two phenomena

Bunnell,Sheila S. Jaswal,Megan B. Lyster,2023-07-03 For all STEM faculty chairs administrators and faculty developers who work to support students learning and thriving in STEM especially those students who have felt unwelcome and unsupported in their past STEM experiences this book offers sustainable strategies that are now being widely adopted to create inclusive environments in undergraduate STEM classes and programs Further this book presents a framework for partnering with students to collaboratively envision how STEM can be a space that fosters a sense of belonging for and promotes the success of all individuals in STEM This book presents the Being Human in STEM Initiative or HSTEM as a model for challenging the assumptions we make and how we communicate to students about who belongs and who can thrive in STEM This work arose out of a time of conflict at Amherst College A four day sit in protesting in support of the Black Lives Matter movement and bringing attention to related experiences of exclusion and marginalization that minoritized students experienced on campus What emerged from that conflict has been transformative for the college its students and for its faculty and staff In this book the authors share how the HSTEM course came into being offer a course overview readings and resources for developing an HSTEM course at your own institution provide recommendations for evaluating the multi level impact of inclusive change initiatives and profile models of how the HSTEM course has been adapted at colleges and universities across the country In addition to providing a road map for developing your own HSTEM course the authors articulate ways that you can make any course or institutional structure more inclusive through active listening and validation and through reflective practice and partnership to progressively make incremental and sustainable changes in STEM education Through listening and reflecting the model facilitates uncovering the disconnects that can impede inclusivity in our classrooms and laboratories While the authors offer a proven process and model for change originally motivated by the urgent need to respond to students demands they recognize that larger institutional culture shifts require the identification and commitment to common values a shared sense of purpose in the work of change and the provision of agency and resources to individuals tasked with making change happen How might we shift institutional STEM culture The HSTEM model provides one solution By reflecting on our own lived experiences and identities engaging with the literature on the factors that enhance and limit full inclusion in STEM and partnering with students to identify actionable ways to bring about sustainable change in our scientific communities we can all work towards creating a more inclusive and human STEM ecosystem Each chapter opens with a set of guiding reflective questions to help you connect these ideas frameworks and strategies to your own teaching and institutional context While each chapter builds on the previous ideas and frameworks the book can also be used as a resource to identify a just in time strategy to address particular questions you may have about making your teaching more inclusive The appendices offer an array of Facilitator Guides each of which outlines a student endorsed exercise based on the pedagogical literature that can foster a sense of belonging and inclusion in your classrooms and laboratory spaces

Complex Problem Solving Beyond the Psychometric Approach Wolfgang Schoppek, Joachim Funke, Magda Osman, Annette Kluge, 2018-09-28 Complex problem solving CPS and related topics such as dynamic decision making DDM and complex dynamic control CDC represent multifaceted psychological phenomena In a broad sense CPS encompasses learning decision making and acting in complex and dynamic situations Moreover solutions to problems that people face in such situations are often generated in teams or groups This adds another layer of complexity to the situation itself because of the emerging issues that arise from the social dynamics of group interactions This framing of CPS means that it is not a single construct that can be measured by using a particular type of CPS task e g minimal complex system tests which is a view taken by the psychometric community The proposed approach taken here is that because CPS is multifaceted multiple approaches need to be taken to fully capture and understand what it is and how the different cognitive processes associated with it complement each other Thus this Research Topic is aimed at showcasing the latest work in the fields of CPS as well as DDM and CDC that takes a holistic approach to investigating and theorizing about these abilities The collection of articles encompasses conceptual approaches as well as experimental and correlational studies involving established or new tools to examine CPS DDM and CDC This work contributes to answering questions about what strategies and what general knowledge can be transferred from one type of complex and dynamic situation to another what learning conditions result in transferable knowledge and skills and how these features can be trained
