Digital Knowledge Maps in Education Dirk Ifenthaler, Ria Hanewald, 2013-11-01 Digital knowledge maps are at a glance visual representations that enable enriching imaginative and transformative ways for teaching and learning with the potential to enhance positive educational outcomes The use of such maps has generated much attention and interest among tertiary education practitioners and researchers over the last few years as higher education institutions around the world begin to invest heavily into new technologies designed to provide online spaces within which to build resources and conduct activities The key elements of this edited volume will comprise original and innovative contributions to existing scholarship in this field with examples of pedagogical possibilities as they are currently practiced across a range of contexts It will contain chapters that address theory research and practical issues related to the use of digital knowledge maps in all aspects of tertiary education and draws predominantly on international perspectives with a diverse group of invited contributors Reports on empirical studies as well as theoretical conceptual chapters that engage deeply with pertinent questions and issues raised from a pedagogical social cultural philosophical and or ethical standpoint are included Systematic literature reviews dealing with digital knowledge mapping in education are also an integral part of the volume Resources in Education, 1986 Biology Living Systems, 1994 Success in the Urban Classroom, 2002 ENC Focus, 2001

Biology Eric Strauss, Marilyn Lisowski, 2000 Iterated Nonlinear Maps and Hilbert's Projective Metric. Part II Roger D. Nussbaum, 1989 When Chemistry Meets Biology – Generating Innovative Concepts, Methods and Tools for Scientific Discovery in the Plant Sciences Erich Kombrink, Markus Kaiser, 2016-08-12 Biologically active small molecules have increasingly been applied in plant biology to dissect and understand biological systems This is evident from the frequent use of potent and selective inhibitors of enzymes or other biological processes such as transcription translation or protein degradation In contrast to animal systems which are nurtured from drug research the systematic development of novel bioactive small molecules as research tools for plant systems is a largely underexplored research area This is surprising since bioactive small molecules bear great potential for generating new powerful tools for dissecting diverse biological processes In particular when small molecules are integrated into genetic strategies thereby defining chemical genetics they may help to circumvent inherent problems of classical forward genetics There are now clear examples of important fundamental discoveries originating from plant chemical genetics that demonstrate the power but not yet fully exploited potential of this experimental approach These include the unraveling of molecular mechanisms and critical steps in hormone signaling activation of defense reactions and dynamic intracellular processes The intention of this Research Topic of Frontiers in Plant Physiology is to summarize the current status of research at the interface between chemistry and biology and to identify future research challenges The research topic covers diverse aspects of plant chemical biology including the identification of bioactive small molecules through screening processes from chemical libraries and natural sources which rely on robust and quantitative high throughput bioassays the critical evaluation and characterization of the compound's activity selectivity and ultimately the identification of its protein target's and mode of action which is yet the biggest challenge of all. Such well characterized selective chemicals are attractive tools for basic research allowing the functional dissection of plant signaling processes or for applied purposes if designed for protection of crop plants from disease. New methods and data mining tools for assessing the bioactivity profile of compounds exploring the chemical space for structure function relationships and comprehensive chemical fingerprinting metabolomics are also important strategies in plant chemical biology. In addition there is a continuing need for diverse target specific bioprobes that help profiling enzymatic activities or selectively label protein complexes or cellular compartments. To achieve these goals and to add suitable probes and methods to the experimental toolbox plant biologists need to closely cooperate with synthetic chemists. The development of such tailored chemicals that beyond application in basic research can modify traits of crop plants or target specific classes of weeds or pests by collaboration of applied and academic research groups may provide a bright future for plant chemical biology. The current Research Topic covers the breadth of the field by presenting original research articles methods papers reviews perspectives and opinions.

Biological Science Biological Sciences Curriculum Study, 1996 Proceedings of the Second International Seminar, Misconceptions and Educational Strategies in Science and Mathematics, July 26-29, 1987, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY, USA Joseph Donald Novak, 1987 Evolvability Thomas F. Hansen, David Houle, Mihaela Pavlicev, Christophe Pélabon, 2023-06-27

Essays on evolvability from the perspectives of quantitative and population genetics evolutionary developmental biology systems biology macroevolution and the philosophy of science. Evolvability the capability of organisms to evolve wasn't recognized as a fundamental concept in evolutionary theory until 1990. Though there is still some debate as to whether it represents a truly new concept the essays in this volume emphasize its value in enabling new research programs and facilitating communication among the major disciplines in evolutionary biology. The contributors many of whom were instrumental in the development of the concept of evolvability synthesize what we have learned about it over the past thirty years. They focus on the historical and philosophical contexts that influenced the emergence of the concept and suggest ways to develop a common language and theory to drive further evolvability research. The essays drawn from a workshop on evolvability hosted in 2019/2020 by the Center of Advanced Study at the Norwegian Academy of Science and Letters in Oslo provide scientific and historical background on evolvability. The contributors represent different disciplines of evolutionary biology including quantitative and population genetics evolutionary developmental biology systems biology and macroevolution as well as the philosophy of science. This plurality of approaches allows researchers in disciplines as diverse as developmental biology molecular biology and systems biology to communicate with those working in mainstream evolutionary biology. The contributors also discuss key questions at the forefront of research on evolvability. Contributors: J. David Aponte, W. Scott Armbruster, Geir H. Bolstad, Salom Bourg, Ingo Brigandt, Anne
