 Robert Louis Abrahamson, 1988 Critical Pedagogy in Hong Kong Carlos Soto, 2019-09-06 This book chronicles the author s application of critical pedagogy in Hong Kong secondary schools serving students from working class families of South Asian heritage so called ethnic minorities in the local context Soto used concepts such as banking pedagogy generative themes liberatory dialogue and transformative resistance to first understand students school online and community experiences and then to reshape his teaching of English and humanities subjects to address the students academic social and emotional needs This critical ethnography is set against educational reforms in Hong Kong which re orientated schools towards developing a knowledge economy workforce increased privatization and competition in the school system aimed to build national identification with China and sought to address growing inequality in a territory known for wealth disparity While these reforms opened opportunities for implementing student centered pedagogies in schools and increased student access to tertiary education ethnic minority youth faced ongoing economic and social marginalization on top of academic difficulties The central narrative captures everyday struggles and contradictions arising from intersections of neoliberal reforms institutional school histories students transnational realities and collective efforts for equity and social justice In the course of the book a parallel story unfolds as the author explores what it means to be a critical teacher and researcher and is reborn in the process The book s on the ground story is hopeful yet tempered in discussing the limits and possibilities for critical pedagogy It will be of a great resource for researchers teacher educators and pre service and in service teachers who
