Vocationalisation Of Basic Education Curriculum In Kenya:

Vocationalisation of Secondary Education Revisited Jon Lauglo, R. Maclean, 2006-03-30 The book is a cutting edge contribution to the debate which has occurred for some time on the pros and cons of secondary education becoming more closely and explicitly related to preparing young people for the world of work The book provides concrete examples of the vocationalisation of secondary education with particular reference to the situation in Africa The target audience for the book includes policy makers practitioners administrators education planners researchers teachers and teacher educators with a concern about the relationship between secondary education and education for the world of work with particular reference to technical and vocational education and training TVET The book appears in the Springer book series on Technical and Vocational Education and Training Issues Concerns and Prospects and compliments the International Handbook of Technical and Vocational Education and Training and other publications in the International Library of TVET all of which are publications of the UNESCO UNEVOC International Centre for TVET in Bonn Germany Resources in Education, 1998

Education, Skills and International Cooperation Kenneth King, 2019-10-15 This book highlights some of Kenneth King's diverse contributions to international and comparative education African studies and development studies over more than four decades From his pioneering work on the first educational commissions to Africa through his research on skills training in the informal sector and on to his critical analysis of education analysis in development agencies this book makes influential materials available in one place Appropriately it illustrates his career long connections with Kenya but also his more recent engagement with Japan China and India It is the first CERC volume to pay significant attention to the policies and politics of skills development Kenneth King is an Emeritus Professor of the University of Edinburgh He was based in and directed its Centre of African Studies for many years and lectured on international perspectives in education and training in its School of Education His research interests have addressed the politics and planning of skills development including in the informal sector of the economy aid policies towards education of both Western and Asian donors and higher education cooperation He founded NORRAG the network for international policies and cooperation in education and training in 1986 and edited NORRAG News until 2016 He was President of the British Association for International and Comparative Education BAICE from 2014 2016 and was one of the founding members of the UK Forum on International Education and Training UKFIET

Vocational Education and Training in Times of Economic Crisis Matthias Pilz, 2016-12-20 This book brings together a broad range of approaches and methodologies relevant to international comparative vocational education and training VET Revealing how youth in transition is affected by economic crises it provides essential insights into the strengths and weaknesses of the various systems and prospects of VET in contexts ranging from North America to Europe e.g. Spain Germany or the UK to Asia such as China Thailand and India Though each country examined in this volume is affected by the economic crisis in a different way the effects are especially apparent for the young generation In many countries the youth unemployment rate is still very high and the job perspectives for young people are often limited at best. The contributions in this volume demonstrate that VET alone cannot solve these problems but can be used to support a smooth transition from school to work. If the quality of VET is high and the status and job expectations are good, VET can help to fill the skills gap especially at the intermediate skill level. Furthermore, VET can also offer a realistic alternative to the university track for young people in many countries.

Maintaining Universal Primary Education Council for Education in the Commonwealth (Great Britain), 2009. Effects of Engagement and Resources on Learning Outcomes in Vocational Colleges: Emerging Research and Opportunities Malechwanz, Joseph Muthiani, 2019-08-30. A main staple of today's world that has played a key role in the development of society is education and institutions of higher learning. An ongoing concern, however, has been the lack of access and resources to superior teaching in developing areas of the world. Student engagement and learning environments are just a few elements that play into the success of colleges in areas like the Coast Region of Kenya. Research must be done in understanding the correlation between the tools that these institutions are equipped with and the educational results of their students.

Effects of Engagement and Resources on Learning Outcomes in Vocational Colleges: Emerging Research and Opportunities is an essential reference source that discusses the relationship between college resources and students' learning outcomes as well as contributing factors in promoting quality education and training. Featuring research on topics such as research philosophies, teaching workloads, and student engagement, this book is ideally designed for teachers, deans, researchers, education professionals, administrators, policymakers, government officials, and academicians seeking coverage on the methods of acquiring and maintaining quality education in developing countries.

Educational Curricula
Jennifer N. Casey, 2008 In formal education a curriculum plural curricula is the set of courses and their content offered at a school or university As an idea curriculum stems from the Latin word for race course referring to the course of deeds and experiences through which children grow and mature in becoming adults Crucial to the curriculum is the definition of the course objectives that usually are expressed as learning outcomes and normally include the program's assessment strategy These outcomes and assessments are grouped as units or modules and therefore the curriculum comprises a collection of such units each in turn comprising a specialised specific part of the curriculum So a typical curriculum includes communications numeracy information technology and social skills units with specific specialised teaching of each This book presents research on educational curricula from around the world The Vocational School Fallacy Revisited Kenneth King, 2000

Educational Response, Inclusion and Empowerment for SDGs in Emerging Economies Mustafa Öztürk, 2022-08-22 This volume analyzes cases from emerging economies in relation to the global endeavor to promote the vision of sustainable development in all forms of education It aims to discuss the significance of hearing local voices and understanding local discourse regarding strategies for action for change and the role of educational systems as a means to communicate promote and educate for the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs In this book emerging economies are defined as newly industrialized countries that have not yet reached developed status but have in a macro economic sense outpaced their developing counterparts In this context the book highlights how education in emerging economies could extend conventional economic methods to sustainability issues or depart from money based calculations and business dominated values to promotion of real life considerations and ethical environmental and humanistic values With the help of this volume readers will have a chance to look at educational response inclusion and empowerment for SDGs in countries with emerging economies and to grasp the synthesis of Education for Sustainable Development Global Citizenship Education ESD GCE within the overall national educational systems This volume focuses on early childhood through upper secondary education

Rural Extension, Education and Training Abstracts, 1986 The Department of Labor's ... Findings on the Worst Forms of Child Labor, 2004 Learn for our planet UNESCO, 2021-05-13 Teaching in Tension Frances Vavrus, Lesley Bartlett, 2013-06-13 In recent years international efforts to improve educational quality in sub Saharan Africa have focused on promoting learner centered pedagogy However it has not flourished for cultural economic and political reasons that often go unrecognized by development organizations and policymakers This edited volume draws on a long term collaboration between African and American educational researchers in addressing critical questions regarding how teachers in one African country Tanzania conceptualize learner centered pedagogy and struggle to implement it under challenging material conditions One chapter considers how international support for learner centered pedagogy has influenced national policies Subsequent chapters utilize qualitative data from classroom observations interviews and focus group discussions across six Tanzanian secondary schools to examine how such policies shape local practices of professional development inclusion gender and classroom discourse In addition the volume presents an analysis of the benefits and challenges of international research between Tanzanian and U S scholars illuminating the complexity of collaboration as it simultaneously presents the outcome of joint research on teachers beliefs and practices The chapters conclude with questions for discussion that can be used in courses on international development social policy and teacher education This volume written by a multinational team of scholar practitioners makes an important contribution to our understanding of learner centered teaching and collaborative educational research Based on an intensive investigation in Tanzania of a professional development program and teachers efforts to conceptualize and implement a globally promoted pedagogical approach the authors illustrate and critically analyze how these practices are enabled and constrained by cultural lenses power relations and material conditions Importantly they also examine reflexively how cultural power and resource issues shaped their struggle to engage in a collective praxis of qualitative inquiry The tensions referenced in the title sparked valuable insights which will be useful to educators researchers and policy makers Mark Ginsburg FHI 360 and Teachers College Columbia University
